

Armco request denied

Council nixes bid change for sewer project

By PHIL LEWIS
Record-Herald City Editor
Washington C.H. City Council Chairman Mrs. Bertha McCullough said she hated to vote no, but it would have held up the multi-million dollar city sewer project.

Mrs. McCullough cast the deciding vote Wednesday night which defeated a motion to change the bid specifications for the construction of sewer lines. The motion would have changed the specifications to allow the use of Armco Steel Corp. truss pipe for sewer lines. The request denial will prevent Armco from bidding on the multi-million dollar construction project, according to company spokesman Don E. Henderson.

Henderson contends that the engineer's specifications would not allow Armco to bid truss pipe to contractors, because the truss pipe joints are sealed with solvent cement forming a rigid joint.

The consulting engineering firm's specifications require the use of an O-ring, or flexible joint, for the sewer lines. Henderson said Armco does not make an O-ring gasket for truss pipe sewers.

Council member Ralph Cook made a motion to change the bid specifications to allow the use of the Armco pipe joint.

Cook and fellow Council members Billie Wilson and James Ward voted for the motion. However, Mrs. McCullough and two other Council members John Morris and Joseph O'Brien voted no. The seventh Council member, Richard Kimmet, was not at the Council meeting and the motion failed by a 3-3 vote.

Mrs. McCullough said Armco waited too long to request a change in the specifications adding that a change now would delay the opening of bids scheduled for Wednesday.

If the opening of bids were delayed, Mrs. McCullough said, the financing of the project would also be delayed. That delay could cost the city a more favorable interest rate on the financing of the project.

THE ARMCO Steel Corp. talked with Mrs. McCullough Friday about the problems with the bid specifications, and then a formal letter requesting the change in the specifications was sent to Council Monday.

A special Council meeting was slated Wednesday to discuss the Armco request.

Charles Bird, of the city's consulting engineering firm of Bird and Bull, attended last night's meeting and explained why the specifications do not allow the use of a rigid joint which would be used by Armco.

He stated that a rigid joint would not give to stress and would cause a sewer line to break, whereas the flexible O-ring joint would give and save a pipe from breaking.

Henderson, who did not attend last night's meeting but who was contacted by phone this morning, said Bird's assessment of the two different kinds of joints was Bird's one opinion.

Henderson went on to say that Armco has not experienced any problems with the rigid joint.

Armco cannot supply the flexible joint, he said, because the type of pipe used by Armco must utilize a solvent cement joint.

Wednesday night, Bird told Council that the specifications could be changed to allow the Armco joint if Council so desired.

Morris said he could see no reason to change the specifications. "Do we take the recommendation of the engineers who have been working on the project or do we listen to a company that is trying to sell us something?" Morris asked. However, Cook had already made the motion to change the

VACANT HOUSE DESTROYED — A Washington C.H. firefighter checks the inner beams during a fire Wednesday night that completely destroyed a vacant house on Flint Drive. The house, at 825 Flint Drive, was unoccupied and contained little furniture. Fire department officials suspect arson to be the cause of the blaze, which also caused minor heat damage to a neighboring house.

Vacant structure completely destroyed

Arson eyed in Flint Drive house fire

Fire destroyed a vacant house and caused some heat damage to a neighboring house on Flint Drive Wednesday night.

Washington C.H. Fire Department officials said they believe arson may have been the cause of the fire at 825 Flint Drive.

Washington C.H. Fire Chief Maynard L. (Joe) Denen stated the blaze was already spreading through the roof of the single-story house by the time they received the call around 9:53 p.m. By the time firefighters arrived the roof was collapsing, he added.

Firefighters spent nearly an hour at the scene and had to lay out about 800 feet of hose because of the location of the house from the nearest fire hydrant.

The heat from the blaze reportedly caused some damage to the house across the driveway and also broke a window.

The house was unoccupied, but did contain some furniture, Denen reported.

The house is reportedly owned by Alice Robinson, but fire officials have been unable to confirm the information.

He said the house was totally engulfed by the fire and that "usually when (a fire) catches by accidental means, it burns on one side." This has lead officials to suspect arson.

The fire chief will head an investigation into the incident.

Thursday morning firefighters snuffed a vehicle fire on Ohio 41 about one mile north of Washington C.H.

The motor of a 1966 model Ford ignited in flame by a backfire through the engine's carburetor, according to fire department officials. The vehicle was being driven by its owner Frank Coe of 1026 S. Fayette St.

The damage was confined to the engine area and the electrical wiring. No estimate of the damage was reported.

Women, children passengers released

Lone gunman hijacks jet in Nebraska

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A man carrying a sawed-off shotgun hijacked a Frontier Airlines Boeing 737 jetliner at a Nebraska airport today with about 35 persons aboard and forced it to fly to Kansas City and then take off again for Atlanta, authorities said.

FBI spokesman Bill Williams said that while on the ground in Kansas City the hijacker released unharmed all women and children passengers and one male passenger, keeping as hostages two male crewmen, two stewardesses and 11 male passengers. The Federal Aviation Administration said the plane took off from Kansas City just after 9 a.m. CDT and was due to cover the 600 miles distance to Atlanta in about one hour and 20 minutes.

The FBI in Kansas City said the hijacker, identified as Thomas Hannon, of Grand Island, Neb., demanded $3 million, two parachutes, two machine guns, two pistols and the release of a federal bank robbery suspect being held in an Atlanta jail.

"We tried everything you people can think of to persuade Hannon to give up," Williams said. "We tried everything. He was very calm, very cool, but very determined."

The FBI said Alvin Feldman, president of Frontier Airlines, guaranteed the hijacker that the $3 million would be waiting for him in Atlanta.

Williams said a high school friend of Hannon's who was on board the plane by chance tried in vain to get him to give up when he commandeered it at the Hall County Airport in Grand Island, Neb.

A spokesman for the Fulton County Jail in Atlanta said he had been notified the hijacker sought the release of George David Stewart, 29, of Mobile, Ala., who had been held there since he was arrested along with Hannon last month on federal charges of holding up a Georgia bank. It was not immediately clear why Hannon was not being held on that charge.

The jail spokesman said that shortly before the plane took off from Kansas City, federal marshals picked Stewart up at the jail and drove him to an undisclosed location.

The Federal Aviation Administration in Washington said there may have been more than one hijacker when the plane, Flight 101, was commandeered at the Hall County Airport at Grand Island, Neb.

An FAA spokesman in Washington said the FAA first learned the plane was in trouble when the pilot radioed there was a man in the cockpit and "we're going to Kansas City for fuel."

The plane landed in Kansas City about an hour later. Larry Bishop, a Frontier spokesman in Denver, said 30 passengers and five crew members already were aboard the plane at Hall County Airport at Grand Island when the hijacker pushed through a security check and forced his way aboard at 6:30 a.m. CDT. The flight, No. 101, normally originates in Grand Island, then flies east to Lincoln and Omaha before heading west to Denver.

There has been only one successful hijacking of a U.S. airliner since Nov. 10, 1972, according to the Federal Aviation Administration.

The FAA said that there were 24 successful hijackings of foreign air carriers between November 1972 and April 1977.

The most recent major U.S. hijacking involved a TWA jetliner taken over by five Croatian nationalists last September while on a flight from Chicago to New York. The plane finally landed in Paris and the nearly 60 hostages were released. The hijackers were sentenced to terms ranging from 30 years to life in prison.

The FAA considers that hijacking to have been successful because the Croatians achieved their demand of dropping leaflets publicizing their demands for independence for their homeland, now part of Yugoslavia.

The jetliner hijacked today is a medium-range, twin-engine plane with a normal operating range of between 1,000 and 2,000 miles.

The plane, in commercial service since 1968, can carry 115 passengers. It is 100 feet long and has a wingspan of 93 feet. Its takeoff weight is 55 tons.

Celebration to be launched tonight

Several activities set for WSHS homecoming

Several activities have been scheduled for the annual homecoming celebration at Washington Senior High School this year.

The annual homecoming celebration will be launched tonight with a parade, bonfire and snake dance before the Washington C.H. Blue Lions entertain Wilmington in the traditional homecoming game Friday night at Gardner Park Stadium.

The parade will form at Belle-Aire Elementary School and will step off at 6:30 p.m. on High Street. The parade will proceed through the Belle-Aire Subdivision over Warren and Albin avenues before dispersing at the intersection of High and W. Elm streets.

Participating students will disband and proceed to McHenry Field on Circle Avenue for a bonfire. Following the bonfire, students organizing the event are requesting all Blue Lion fans to participate in a "snake dance" from McHenry Field to the Fayette County Courthouse. Fans will assemble at the Courthouse for a pep rally and "victory" speeches by team captains Duane Six and Jeff Elliott and head coach Paul Ondrus.

Washington Senior High School students said the events tonight are not closed to students only.

Homecoming Queen Julie Smith and her royal court of attendants will reign over the traditional homecoming festivities at Gardner Park Stadium Friday night when the Lions host South Central Ohio League rival Wilmington.

Julie Smith, senior Wanda Aills and freshman Jeri Rudduck.

Miss Smith, a senior, is the 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Smith, 803 N. North St.

Her attendants are Wanda Aills, senior, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Aills, 814 Leesburg Ave.;

Lorrie Stillings, junior, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Stillings, 622 Gregg St.; Gloria Smith, sophomore, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Smith, 925 John St.; and Jeri Rudduck, freshman, 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Rudduck, 932 S. Main St.

On Saturday night, the annual homecoming dance will be held from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. in the Washington Senior High School gymnasium.

Deaths, Funerals

Joseph S. Ater

CHILLICOTHE—Joseph S. Ater, 55, of Rt. 1, Clarksburg, died at 2:20 a.m. Thursday in Mt. Carmel West Hospital in Columbus. He had been ill for two years.

Born in Frankfurt, Mr. Ater was a retired major of the U.S. Air Force. He retired in 1970 after 29 years of service. He was a member of the Frankfort American Legion Post 483 and the Clarksburg United Methodist Church.

He is survived by his wife, the former Betty Alden; his mother, Mrs. Carol Pyle Ater of Clarksburg; two sons, David A. Ater and Mark S. Ater, both at home; two daughters, Miss Lisa L. Ater and Miss Susan D. Ater, both at home; and three brothers, Glen E. Ater, Jack W. Ater, and Earl Ater, all of Clarksburg.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Ware Funeral Home, Chillicothe, with the Rev. Michael Wright officiating. Burial will be in Brown's Chapel Cemetery, near Clarksburg.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 4 p.m. Friday.

Charles N. Campbell

Charles N. Campbell, 52, of 3084 Wallingford Road, Columbus, was pronounced dead on arrival at 5:45 p.m. Wednesday at Riverside Hospital, Columbus. He had been ill two weeks.

Mr. Campbell, a retired employee of the Sweden Freezer Co., Columbus, had been disabled since 1966. He was born in Fayette County, but moved to Columbus in 1965. He was a life member of the Moose Lodge in Washington C.H.

Surviving is his wife, the former Roberta Smith; three daughters, Mrs. Rosemary Pollard of Louisiana, Candy Sue and Cheryl Ann Campbell, both at home; and two sons, Charles Edward Campbell and William Douglas Campbell, both at home; six grandchildren; his mother, Mrs. Mary Shoop Hacks of Columbus; a brother, Richard Campbell of Columbus; and aunts, uncles, nieces and nephews in the Washington C.H. area.

Services will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home with the Rev. Ray Russell officiating. Burial will be in the Washington Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 3 until 9 p.m. Friday.

George Clifford

MOUNT STERLING—George (Ed) Clifford, 67, of Rt. 2, Mount Sterling, died Wednesday morning in the Madison County Hospital, London.

Mr. Clifford, who was engaged in farming, was born in Pike County.

Surviving is his wife, Clara Snyder Clifford; four sons, Eddie Jo Clifford of Mount Sterling, Jimmy Edward Clifford of Fremont, Ernie Lee and Jesse Clifford, both at home; four daughters, Mrs. Janet Towler of Mount Sterling, Mrs. Judy Mills of South Solon, and the Misses Alice Mae and Edna Clifford, both at home; eight grandchildren; and one brother, Ernest Clifford of Hamilton.

Services will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Porter Funeral Home, Mount Sterling, with the Rev. Gerald Seymour and the Rev. Joe Johnson officiating. Burial will be in Pleasant Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p.m. Thursday and on Friday afternoon and evening.

MRS. THOMAS VAN DYNE—Services for Mrs. Gwendolyn Van Dyne, 63, wife of Thomas Van Dyne, of 615 Campbell St., were held at 1 p.m. Wednesday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home with the Rev. David Faust, pastor of the Hickory Lane Church of Christ, officiating.

Mrs. Van Dyne, a former employee of the Crowell-Collier Publishing Co., Springfield, died Saturday.

Pallbearers for burial in Greenlawn Cemetery, Chillicothe, were Rodney Johnson, Tom and Bill Hall, Jim Shaw, Bill and Eugene Van Dyne.

JAMES FRANKLIN LADD — Graveside services for James Franklin Ladd, 70, of 836 Flint Drive, were conducted at 10:30 a.m. Thursday by the Rev. Dale Orihood in Washington Cemetery.

Mr. Ladd died Oct. 7. Arrangements for burial were made under the direction of the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home.

Kidnaped industrialist found dead

West Germans plea for public help

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Calling on every citizen to help, the West German government went public with its hunt for 16 young women and men wanted for the kidnap-murder of industrialist Hanns-Martin Schleyer and other recent terrorist attacks.

A blackout in effect since Schleyer was kidnaped on Sept. 5 ended within minutes of the announcement that his body had been found in an automobile trunk in eastern France.

Photographs of the 10 women and six men wanted, 22 to 28 years old, were shown one by one on all television networks as the announcers read their descriptions and biographical sketches. Persons with information were asked to call special telephone numbers and report anonymously.

"They shall not rest," government spokesman Klaus Boelling said of the killers. "Every citizen in our country will help security officials track down the criminals."

But the terrorists vowed the violence "has just begun," and anti-German demonstrations rocked several European cities.

Leftist protesters clashed with police in Athens Wednesday night and staged marches in London and a handful of Italian cities.

A march was scheduled for today in Rome.

The radicals accuse the Bonn government of killing three leading terrorists the government said committed suicide in their prison cells Tuesday. The government said they were suicides.

Among those wanted was Susanne Albrecht, 26-year-old daughter of a prominent Hamburg lawyer. She has been identified as one of the killers of Frankfurt banker Juergen Ponto, a family friend, last July.

The small band, remnants of the Baader-Meinhof gang, is also blamed for the assassination of the government's chief prosecutor, Siegfried Buback, in the wave of anti-government, anti-capitalist violence that began six months ago.

The German gang also apparently was linked to the Arabic-speaking hijackers who took over a Lufthansa jetliner last week since both Schleyer's kidnapers and the hijackers demanded the release of the same 11 German terrorists from West German prisons. The government did not comply, and a West German commando team rescued the 86 hostages aboard the airliner in Somalia early Tuesday, killing three of the hijackers and seriously wounding the fourth.

House completing action

Base wage measure near final approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill that would raise the nation's minimum wage $1.05 an hour by 1981 is nearing a final congressional vote that will probably send the legislation to President Carter.

The House was expected to complete action on the legislation today.

House leaders said passage of the compromise bill apparently was assured despite the anticipated opposition of a Texas congressman irate over changes the House-Senate conference committee made in an amendment he had tacked on the original bill.

Rep. J. J. Pickle, D-Tex., is upset that the conferees narrowed his provision by exempting more small companies from the wage floor.

The committee voted to exempt by 1982 firms with gross sales of less than $362,500. Pickle wanted to exempt by mid-1978 companies with sales under $500,000. The exemption is now $250,000.

There was virtually no debate as the bill won Senate approval Wednesday on a voice vote.

Nearly five million workers would have bigger paychecks Jan. 1, under the bill, when the wage floor goes to $2.65 an hour. It would increase to $2.90 an hour in 1979, $3.10 an hour in 1980 and $3.35 an hour in 1981.

In other action Wednesday, the Senate passed an extension of the mandatory retirement age for most private employees by a vote of 88 to 7.

Only tenured college professors and high-paid business executives could still be forced to retire at 65 under the Senate bill.

The legislation, which raises the mandatory age to 70 for about 70 per cent of the work force, must now be meshed with the House-passed version.

The conference committee will have to deal with a Housepassed prohibition that would remove the age requirement for federal workers. The Senate bill lets stand the current provision that forces such workers to retire at age 70.

Another difference between the two versions involves the provision dealing with executives. The Senate wants the mandatory age raised to 70, while the House would continue to allow employers to force them off the job at 65.

The Senate would exempt those executives whose retirement benefits, including Social Security, total $20,000.

Blacks, papers banned

South African violence prompts new crackdown

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police throughout South Africa are on full alert amid sporadic violence and mounting criticism of the white government's new crackdown on black organizations.

Even pro-government newspapers were critical of the banning Wednesday of 18 black and inter-racial organizations, the closing of the country's two principal black newspapers and the arrest of at least 50 prominent blacks.

"This is the action of foolish and frightened men, who do not have the courage to face the truth of their own disastrous failure when it is spelled out to them in plain and forceful language," said the Transvaler, an Afrikaans newspaper considered an unofficial voice of the ruling National Party in Transvaal province.

It warned that the bans would drive the black organizations underground, and "swell the shadowy ranks which are dedicated to overthrowing the existing order by violence."

There was little violence, however, in the first 24 hours after the crackdown.

Police broke up a protest march by white university students in Johannesburg and arrested 64 people. A student in a group of blacks stoning a school in a black township north of Pretoria was wounded in the arm when the headmaster fired a revolver.

A gasoline bomb was thrown at the home of an education official in a black tribal area on the Lesotho border, but no damage was reported. Pupils in primary schools in the black Soweto township left their classes, joining a boycott high school students already were waging.

The Carter administration said the South African government had taken an "unfortunate action that seems to represent a very serious step backwards."

"We shall examine very closely the implications of these events with regard to U.S. South Africa relations," the State Department said.

"I think they panicked," said U.S. Ambassador Andrew Young, at the United Nations. "They are frightened, and they are committing social and political suicide."

British Foreign Minister David Owen commented that "the silencing of the voices of those who speak for the majority in South Africa can only be a tragic setback" to the "peaceful evolution of South African society."

Strike may close two NCR plants

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Officials of the NCR Corp. warned Wednesday they may close the company's Dayton Terminal Systems Division and Dayton Microelectronics Division.

Some 850 members of United Auto Workers 1616 went on strike against the plants Aug. 5, and some 650 workers remain out. The dispute primarily is over pension benefits. No progress has been reported.

The plants employ a total of 1,400 persons. NCR said some 650 manufacturing jobs would be terminated if the divisions close. Officials said they could not tell how many of the 750 nonmanufacturing jobs also would be lost.

NCR employed 20,000 persons in Dayton in 1969. By Jan. 1, 1970, that number had shrunk to 5,300.

Mainly About People

Harold Graves, 824 Washington Ave., has returned home from Mercy Hospital, Columbus, where he was a medical patient.

Schleyer's murder had been expected since the commando raid demonstrated the government's determination not to free the imprisoned terrorists and the government's announcement that the three prisoners at the head of the list — Andreas Baader, Gudrun Ensslin and Jan-Carl Raspe — committed suicide in their cells Tuesday.

The body of the 62-year-old president of the associations of employers and industries was found after telephone tips sent French police to a car parked on a quiet street in the Alsatian town of Mulhouse, 10 miles from the German border.

First reports said Schleyer's throat had been cut, but police said later he had a single bullet wound below the right ear and two wounds on top of the head, apparently caused by blows from a heavy instrument.

president of the Chamber of Commerce, said the deadline has been extended to 12 noon Monday.

Responses received from the Chamber questionnaire will be published in a future edition of the Record-Herald to provide local voters with information concerning the candidates' priorities.

IT'S THAT time again. . . The Washington C.H. Jaycee chapter will be holding its weekly paper drive from 10 a.m. to 12 noon Saturday at the Seaway parking lot on Clinton Avenue.

Anyone having newspapers, catalogs and magazines are urged to bring them to the collection site where the Jaycees will be on hand to unload cars.

Persons unable to deliver papers to the parking lot may call Leroy Farris at 335-7591 or Gary Johnson at 335-2010.

A PAPER drive has been scheduled for Saturday by members of the Fayette Chapter Order of DeMolay.

Members will be conducting a door-to-door drive to collect old newspapers.

The drive, which is for the benefit of the shrine, will start at 9 a.m.

City Council

specifications and it was seconded by Wilson, who stated Council should take into consideration that Armco employs many people in the Washington C.H. area.

Before the motion was made to change the specifications, City Solicitor Gary D. Smith was consulted.

SMITH ADVISED the city to readvertise for bids on the construction project if the specifications are changed. He said due to the magnitude of the project law suits could be filed if the bids were not readvertised.

If bids for the construction of the sewer project were readvertised, the bids could not be opened until early next month. This would cause problems with the city's efforts to obtain financing from the Ohio Water Development Authority, according to the engineers.

Jerry Turner of Bird and Bull told Council that the OWDA had a Nov. 10 deadline for financing projects for the last quarter of 1977. He added that if the deadline was met the city would be assured of a 6.4 per cent interest rate on bonds sold. If the deadline was not met, the financing could not be approved until the first quarter of 1978 when interest rates are expected to rise as much as six-tenths of a per cent.

Later in the evening Council passed a motion to pursue financing with the OWDA. A number of other ways of financing the city's $3 million share of the construction costs had been studied by Council, but five Council members felt the OWDA offered the best alternative.

Don Ransom, a spokesman for the OWDA, said Thursday that if the OWDA approves a cooperative agreement with the city, the entire cost of the $12 million project would be financed.

He added that the $9 million in federal grant monies would be paid to OWDA and revenue bonds would be sold to finance the city's share of the costs.

Ransom said the financing would be a non-debt agreement meaning the city would not have to reserve tax millage as collateral, and the city could choose the number of years (from 10 to 25) to payoff the loan.

The city would retire the bonds through its sewer revenue fund and Ransom said the OWDA would need to be satisfied with the sewer billing rate structure before the financing could be approved.

Thank You ...

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for the beautiful floral arrangements, food and kindnesses shown me during the loss of my husband, Otho L. Fent.

A special thanks to Dr. Anderson and The Burcham Funeral Home in Fairborn, Ohio.

Mrs. Otho Fent

Stock market slumps again

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices slumped again today in the aftermath of Wednesday's selloff.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which hit a new two-year low at the close Wednesday, dropped another 2.86 to 809.34 in the first half hour today.

Declines outnumbered advances by a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts noted that the market began to slide Wednesday when the Commerce Department reported that the Gross National Product grew at only a 3.8 per cent annual rate, after adjustment for inflation, in the third quarter.

That was down sharply from the economic growth rate in the first half of the year.

American Telephone & Telegraph, the early volume leader among NYSE issues, dropped 3/8 to 58 1/2 after a 1 1/4-point decline Wednesday, when the company announced plans for a 12 million-share offering next month.

The Dow registered an 8.31 loss Wednesday to 812.20, its lowest close since it finished at 794.55 on Oct. 2, 1975.

Losers outpaced gainers by about a 9-4 margin on the NYSE, and the exchange's composite index fell .54 to 50.65.

Big Board volume was a fairly active 22.03 million shares.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gave up .95 to 113.64.

Government eyes new controls for ads on candy, soft drinks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government, saying many products advertised for children are unhealthy, is moving toward controlling ads for such items as candy, soft drinks and cereal.

"We're not talking about research anymore. We're now talking about the legal problems of which way to go," said a spokesman for the Federal Trade Commission, which regulates advertising to assure it is not deceptive or unfair.

FTC Chairman Michael Pertschuk said in an interview Wednesday that he is "convinced that action has to be taken" to guard small children against television advertisements promoting products containing large concentrations of sugar.

Options available to the commission range from requiring labels on such products as cereals, soft drinks and candy warning about their sugar content, to requiring the televising of public service messages emphasizing good nutrition and eating habits, to a total ban on the advertising.

The options are to be presented to the full commission in early November, the FTC spokesman said.

An FTC spokesman said the sugar products are the focus of the commission's attention right now, but the FTC might aim in the future at television advertising of drugs during children and family viewing hours and at ads promoting toys.

"Why single out one industry? What's the difference between a snack and a toy? You're appealing for the same kind of (child) instincts," said the spokesman.

Solons correct bill oversight

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State lawmakers moved swiftly today to correct an oversight that excluded as many as 30,000 owners and renters of mobile homes from the state's newly enacted program giving winter season heating bill discounts to the elderly and disabled.

The House Finance Committee recommended the corrective legislation unanimously and it was speeded to the Rules Committee for an expected House approval later today.

Rep. Dennis E. Eckart, D-18 Euclid, who sponsored the earlier program providing the 25 per cent monthly discount, said the mobile home residences had been included in the second year of the two year program, but not for the first winter starting in December.

HESITATION CAN BE COSTLY

Once you put real estate on the market, you have to make up your mind to move when the right offer comes. Your asking price should come pretty close to your selling price if you have priced your property realistically. The right offer may be your first offer, and if you turn it down, you may never get another as good.

However, the offer should be a written one - the only kind that has any real significance and on which you can depend.

Just remember that a legitimate offer should be accompanied by a good-sized check depending on the selling price. Never accept a verbal promise and take your property off the market. The next day, a good sale may be

Curb on weight-loss drug

If amphetamines were the only effective drugs to curb appetite in obese persons, a good argument could be made for permitting their continued use as a diet aid. The fact is that, in the Food and Drug Administration's words, "equally effective but less abused drugs are available."

This argues in favor of the FDA's proposed ban on use of so-called pep pills for short-term obesity control. This is still permitted, though other restrictions on use of amphetamines have been so stringent that legal manufacture of the drugs has been cut by some 75 per cent over the past decade.

Despite this cutback in legal production, the agency reports, abuse of amphetamines continues. This is reason to think that this is facilitated, to some extent, by the ease of obtaining prescriptions for obesity control.

Numerous other drugs are more harmful than the amphetamines. There is something particularly disturbing, however, about the thought of people using them routinely - often every day - to provide a false sense of well-being at what may in the end be serious cost to health.

The FDA describes amphetamines as being of only "trivial" value in helping to curb overweight. This, coupled with the availability of other drugs for this purpose, makes the ban seem like good sense.

THESE DAYS...By John Chamberlain

A little logic, please

At the end of November they will be holding a seminar on economics for federal judges at the Royal Biscayne Hotel in Key Biscayne, Fla. The sponsoring agency is the Law and Economics Center of the University of Miami School of Law. In view of the roadblocks that judges have been throwing in the way of such things as offshore drilling for oil and the licensing of new atomic energy plants, nothing but good can come out of an effort to improve judicial understanding of such fundamental things as the energy market.

But the judges are not wholly to blame for the economic troubles now afflicting the country. The U.S. Congress is the prime culprit. And what is now desperately needed is a Key Biscayne seminar for legislators who would profit by a course in elementary logic.

Everywhere we look on Capitol Hill, we find senators and representatives who believe in such palpable absurdities as the proposition that two solid objects can occupy the same space at the same time. Our congressmen are constantly setting up laws that are physically impossible to administer. They go along with President Carter on the idea that we must convert our utilities from oil and natural gas to coal by 1985. Since we have enough coal in the ground to last for several generations, the proposition makes sense. What does not make sense is the Congress's over-literal addition to perfectionism in enforcing a Clean Air Act that defies the natural order. Coal can't legally be burned under the Clean Air Act.

It is the one thing to object to smog in Los Angeles and New York City. The human agencies that concentrate too much carbon monoxide in big urban areas can be dealt with by such specifics as changing the carburetors of cars sold and registered locally. And there may be a point to prescribing scrubbers for smokestacks in densely populated areas. But why is it necessary to legislate something called "non-degradation" for parts of the country that now have no industry at all? And what is the sense in imposing across-the-board penalties on areas that fail to meet quality air standards on any one of six major air pollutants?

"Non-degradation" means that you can't build factories in Wyoming or Nevada, where the air might be mildly and quite inoffensively sullied by a few suspended particulates in smoke. And "non-attainment," which is the test that would be used to keep coal-fired plants out of deserts where there is already a large amount of nature's dust in the air, would preclude coal-created electric energy that might power the irrigation pumps needed to prevent dust storms in the first place.

The Heritage Foundation points to the idiosyncrasy that stopped the building of an oil refinery in Virginia because the Great Dismal Swamp had generated too much swamp gas. Since oil is not a great pollutant, one trembles to think what might happen if Virginia were to try to substitute coal-burning plants for oil within miles of the decaying Great Dismal Swamp vegetation. As for coal-burning utilities in the Great Smoky Mountains, perish the idea. That haze you see in the Smokies comes from vegetable matter that pays no attention to such legalistic categories as "non-degradation" and "non-attainment."

Then there is the government's war on such things as pesticides and drugs. The war makes sense up to a point. But it is a war that should be fought in the 18th century fashion as a limited war. Peter Barton Hutt, a former Federal Department of Agriculture chief counsel, points out that one need not be either a biostatistician or an epidemiologist to figure out that the chances of being hit by an auto on the way to the supermarket are much greater than the chances of being harmed by mercury in swordfish or saccharin in a diet cola - if one manages to dodge the car in the first place.

As for drugs, we need an antibiotic to combat the spread of "legionnaires' disease," which has now turned up in Vermont. If a promising antibiotic is found, must we wait five years to feed it first to rats or rhesus monkeys? Most people of common sense would prefer to die of cancer 20 years hence than of legionnaires' disease tomorrow.

Dayton fluoridation measures accepted

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Dayton residents apparently are accepting the fluoridation of their water with a minimum of fuss.

"There seems to be no significant reaction that I can detect," said Thomas Sayers, superintendent of the Dayton Division of Water Supply and Treatment.

"We have tried to keep the citizens informed. Most of the citizens are aware of what is happening, and most of those who oppose fluoridation have had a chance to voice their opposition. It's been going pretty smoothly."

Dayton began adding the controversial chemical to its water Monday morning after years of controversy and court action.

Only trace amounts of fluoride were added at first at the Ottawa Street plant, which provides about three-fourths of the city's water supply, Sayers said.

It will be added no later than today at the Miami Street plant, which supplies the rest of the city's water.

"We're on-line (operational) at the Ottawa plant and we're making adjustments at the Miami plant. With the new equipment we're particularly concerned that it function very, very well and be adjusted properly. So we're monitoring very closely. We will be on line in both plants at the end of the week."

The amounts will be increased throughout the week until the level reaches the state-recommended measure of one milligram per liter (one part per million) of water.

This output level will be reached about Friday, Sayers said, although it will take another week for the fluoridated water to circulate throughout the distribution system. There already is .1 to .2 milligrams of fluoride naturally in Dayton's water.

Sayers estimates it is costing $100,000 to buy and install equipment at the two plants. Cost of the chemical is another $40,000 per year. And there will be additional operating costs that have not been projected yet, he said. No additional employees will be hired.

The city was ordered by the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency — following a seven-year court battle — to begin fluoridation Sept. 1. A delay in shipment of key valves forced postponement until Monday, Sayers said.

Ohio's first bottle of native champagne was produced in 1847 by horticulturist Nicholas Longworth of Cincinnati. Later some Ohio River slopes became excellent wine-growing areas. — AP

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Father won't send children to school

DEAR ABBY: I just returned from hearing a Federal Court decision that sent my 21-year-old grandson to prison for five years.

Outside the courtroom I confronted Don (my son-in-law) for having taken the boy out of school in the eighth grade. Don said the boy was better off OUT of school—that all he learned there was racism, violence and how to smoke pot. He didn't even know how to read.

My daughter and Don have three younger children, and Don says he's not going to send any of them to public school. If the authorities try to force him to, he says, they will have to kill him first.

My daughter says she will try to get some correspondence courses and teach the children at home. Can this be done?

ESCONDIDO GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: California law, education—either public or private—is mandatory. In the case of a handicapped or ill child, the board of education often provides special tutoring. But if your son-in-law refuses to send his healthy children to school, and attempts to "teach" them at home, he can expect to have a legal battle on his hands.

DEAR ABBY: Is it possible to marry a dead person using a proxy?

In our area, a teenage boy drowned a few weeks ago, and he had planned to marry soon. They had a license already.

I understand the girl was pregnant and she wanted a name for her child, so they were married at the funeral parlor. Is that possible? Can you find out for me?

CURIOUS IN PA.

DEAR CURIOUS: You don't need a Philadelphia lawyer to hunt up a precedent for this. The answer is no, it's not possible.

DEAR ABBY: I am desperate, and you are my only hope. I have positive proof that my husband is on drugs. Don't tell me to approach the mental health people or talk to my parish priest. My husband is well-known in town and holds a very responsible position. He would be ruined if this were ever found out.

He left me and our children three months ago. (He made ridiculous excuses for leaving.)

He is still a young man with a brilliant future ahead of him. I am going out of my mind worrying about him. If there is any information you can give me on how I can help him, I will forever remember you in my prayers.

CURRENTLY IN LIMBO

DEAR IN LIMBO: It is impossible to "help" him unless he agrees to be helped. Is he heavily into drugs, or just an occasional user? You say he's "left" you, but you don't say whether you know where he is. If you can contact him, do so. Tell him that you "know" and urge him to get into a drug rehabilitation program. Your local Mental Health Association can give you the information you need.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Oct. 20, the 293rd day of 1977. There are 72 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1918, Germany accepted Allied terms to end World War I and ordered German submarines to their home bases.

On this date:

In 1632, the English architect, Sir Christopher Wren, was born in Wiltshire, England.

In 1941, during World War II, a state of siege was declared in Moscow.

In 1945, Arab nations formed a league and warned that creation of a Jewish state in the Middle East could lead to war.

In 1964, former President Herbert Hoover died in New York at the age of 90.

In 1968, Jacqueline Kennedy and Aristotle Onassis were married on his private island, Skorpios, in the Ionian Sea.

Ten years ago: An all-white jury convicted deputy sheriff Cecil Price and Ku Klux Klan leader Sam Bowers on a federal conspiracy charge growing out of the 1964 murders of three young civil rights workers in Mississippi.

Five years ago: Six Americans shared in Nobel Prize awards for physics and chemistry.

One year ago: President Ford told a news conference he would not tolerate another Arab oil embargo.

Today's birthdays: Former baseball star Mickey Mantle is 46 years old. Columnist Art Buchwald is 52.

Thought for today: I have never let my schooling interfere with my education — Mark Twain.

Over 400,000 expected

Pumpkin Show begins despite strike threat

CIRCLEVILLE, Ohio (AP) — The annual Circleville Pumpkin Show opened Wednesday despite the threat of a strike by city employees.

More than 400,000 people are expected to descend on the town of 13,000 residents 20 miles south of Columbus by this weekend. That means crowds of more than 100,000 both Friday and Saturday if the weather is nice.

The visitors will dine on pumpkin burgers, pumpkin soup, pumpkin pancakes and, of course, pumpkin pie. It's all served on the town's main street which is blocked off by two huge piles of pumpkins.

Among the opening festivities Wednesday was the third annual contest with rival pumpkin festival holder, Half Moon Bay, Calif. Circleville won — for the third time — with a pumpkin that weighed 210.5 pounds. Half Moon Bay's pumpkin tipped the scales at 159 pounds.

In a new category — squash — Circleville's monstrous 343-pound Hungarian Gray Squash grown by Mark Coon of Ashville easily bested Half Moon Bay's 175-pound entry.

Officials of the two towns compared their prize winners over the telephone, and an official at Half Moon Bay blamed his town's poor showing on the summer drought.

Lurking in the wings of the gala festival is the threat of a strike by 80 members of the city's service department, sewer and water department, and firemen. City policemen are not involved.

The workers, who asked the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees last spring to negotiate for them, had planned to strike Wednesday morning, only hours before the noontime kickoff of the festival.

Missing Ohio woman located in Missouri

CLAREMORE, Okla. (AP) — Police have located an Ohio woman whose personal belongings were found on a residential street here earlier this month.

Officer Mickey Perry said the woman, Mary C. Davis, 20, of Wellston, Ohio, was located living in a St. Roberts, Mo., apartment.

Two bags containing her Social Security card and clothing were found Oct. 2. She had been scheduled to report at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio, Tex., for recruit training but did not appear when Air Force recruiters were to have picked her up.

Officers had feared foul play when her clothing was found.

However, the employees were waiting for approval from AFSCME Council 51 in Columbus. Union officials could not be reached to learn why strike authorization was delayed.

The starting pay in the service and sewer and water departments currently is $3.11 an hour. Firemen start at $8,200 a year.

The city has offered pay increases of about $755 a year to all workers, plus benefits that include half the cost of a family health insurance plan, a $150 cash bonus, and a Christmas bonus plan under which employees may take cash plus 15 per cent for accrued vacation time.

The union is seeking a 50-cent an hour pay increase in addition to the package the city is offering.

Officials said neighboring fire departments had been alerted under a mutual aid pact, and that supervisory personnel would be adequate to maintain other services during the festival.

"We have a pretty simple cleanup system," the resident said. "The concessionaires just sweep the stuff out into the middle of street when they close and city crews pick it up during the night."

Meanwhile, city officials said the pumpkin pageant would proceed.

"The only thing that ever stopped the Pumpkin Show was World War II," said one Circleville resident.

Kurfess Comments

By Charles F. Kurfess, Ohio House Minority Leader

SCHOOLS NEED LOCAL TAXES School crisis is in the news headlines again in Ohio. It seems that some districts periodically reach the point where the money available is insufficient to keep the school programs going. This probably is the result of not only inflation, which is recognized by all of us, but also of expanded school programs.

The potential for school closings this fall probably is more newsworthy than in the past because two of our larger school districts — Toledo and Cleveland — are involved.

It should be noted that the 44 school districts which have requested audits preparatory to possible closings before the end of this school year comprise only six per cent of the 617 districts in the state. However, those threatened districts do include 12 per cent of the 2.17 million pupils in Ohio's public school system.

Approximately twenty of these 44 school districts are proposing tax levies for the ballot yet this year and voter approval of the levies would provide adequate funds for those schools to remain open throughout the year.

It should be noted that in the last ten years the state's share of school operating costs has risen from 34.5 per cent to more than 42 per cent this year. It was as high as 45.7 per cent in the school year 1974-75.

Two years ago the Legislature adopted a new formula for distribution of these funds, commonly referred to as the "equal yield formula." The aim of this formula is to provide to all districts the same number of dollars per pupil for each mill of local property tax, up to 30 mills.

Earlier, the School Foundation formula had been in effect for approximately 20 years, and periodically the Legislature would add a "guarantee" so a school district would be guaranteed so much money from the state regardless of what the subsidy formula coupled with local tax effort normally would have provided. Eventually there were eight guarantees tacked onto the old formula and more than 95 per cent of our school districts were getting their state aid based on the guarantees, not the basic formula.

A new state aid plan clearly was required, and the Legislature provided it. However, we are now confronted with the fact that the Legislature already has tacked on two guarantees and we are only in the second year of the new formula. Is the old pattern starting all over again?

Our schools are going to continue to be dependent upon property tax levies for a substantial portion of operating costs. Adequate funding for schools is therefore dependent upon citizen support and confidence in the school system at the local level. Substantial local tax support is probably also requisite to assure a high degree of local control of the school program.

It is clear to me that the Legislature should now give serious attention to providing our local taxpayers an alternative choice for raising local tax funds for schools in addition to the property tax. One proposal before lawmakers is a permissive local district income tax.

A myriad of problems would have to be resolved in pursuing that approach, but we ought to be at it. Nonetheless, it is obvious that where there is a school crisis this year, it can only be resolved by an increase in local support for schools through passage of local tax levies.

Insurance fraud funds received

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Industrial Commission has received more than a fourth of the money that persons convicted of defrauding the State Insurance Fund have been ordered to repay.

Chairman William W. Johnston said $104,182 in restitution has been received from persons in the Cleveland area. Total restitution ordered by the courts was $405,187.

Miss Mustain completes wedding plans

Miss Sherry Mustain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Mustain, has completed her wedding plans to Mr. Dennis Garrison, son of Mrs. Janet Winfough. The wedding will be held Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in the South Side Church of Christ with Bro. Marvin Ringer performing the double-ring ceremony.

Miss Mustain has asked Mrs. Jean Webster to be her matron of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Karen Russelo, Miss Parma Storm, and Miss Jami Achor, cousin of the groom. Miss Alicia Arthur, sister of the groom, and Master Sean Arthur, brother of the groom, will serve as flower girl and ring bearer, respectively.

Mr. Harold Everhart will perform the duties as best man and Mr. Garrison has asked Mr. John Morris, Mr. Bob Mustain, brother of the bride, and Mr. Karl Kellenberger to be ushers.

Mrs. Mel Darif will preside at the guest register and hostesses for the reception to be held at Mahan Building will be Mrs. Pat Mustain, Mrs. Joleen Kelly, Mrs. Sandy Smith, and Mrs. Bonnie Baughn.

Mother's Circle sets Santa visit

Vice president Judy Pool conducted the short business meeting of Mothers' Circle Monday night at the home of Marilee Peterson.

Karen Rummer, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and called the roll of attendance.

December 10 will be the Circle's Visit With Santa. The November meeting will be at the home of Chris Roszmann and will be the Talent Auction of homemade treasures.

Sharon Craig introduced Mildred Wheat who led a stimulating discussion on "Raising Children;" using her experiences and referring also to the book, "Promises to Peter," by Charlie Shedd.

Fall OAGC meeting set

Mrs. Jay Straley of Plain City, regional director of Region 16, Ohio Association of Garden Clubs, has announced plans for a fall meeting to be held at the Faith Community United Methodist Church in Xenia, on Nov. 10.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. with the Greene County clubs as hostesses. The business meeting is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. at which time Mrs. Harry Aberle of Xenia, will be installed as the new regional director for '77-79 by Mrs. Leo Titus, second vice president of the OAGC.

Following luncheon at 12 noon served by the women of the church, the afternoon program will be presented by Margie Barrett of Columbus, featuring "Faith and Flowers." Reservations are to be mailed by Oct. 30 to Mrs. Clark Byrd, 1604 N. Central Dr., Dayton 45432.

Girl Scouts to receive new handbooks

Fayette County Girl Scout troops are celebrating not only the birthday of their founder Juliette Lowe, but also the first major change in scouting since 1963 with the issuance of a new handbook, "Worlds to Explore."

The new handbook is to be used by Brownies age 6 to 9 and Juniors age 9 to 12.

Mrs. Charles Cunningham, the Fayette County Girl Scout Director, and Mrs. Jackie Alexander of the Girl Scout Council have begun working with troop leaders in studying the new book. Before the new book was issued, as a girl advanced from Brownie to Junior, she was required to purchase a new handbook. Now she will not. She also can choose activities from the book she is interested in instead of activities according to her age level.

The "World of the Out-of-doors" section expands on the traditional Girl Scout interest in camping, nature and conservation. Brownies for the first time are now encouraged to go camping because of a greater emphasis on ecology and environment.

The "World of Today and Tomorrow" introduces the metric system, carpentry, and simple scientific experiments with insights into the future for the working woman.

The "World of the Arts" includes activities in all ranges of visual, performing and literary arts.

The "World of Well Being", highlights physical and emotional health, nutrition, the home, safety and consumer awareness.

The "World of the People" consists of projects geared in developing appreciation of differing cultures and building pride in ones heritage.

Incorporated throughout the new handbook are certain basics that have made Girl Scouting unique and have stood the test of time, such as the principles embodied in the Promise and Law and the concepts of service and international friendship.

Miss Cremeans, Mr. Klontz wed

Miss Rosita Renee Cremeans, daughter of Mrs. Sadie Copas Rt. 1, Greenfield, and Mr. Jerry Cremeans of Columbus, and Mr. Kurt Klontz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Klontz of Jeffersonville, exchanged marriage vows Oct. 7 in the chapel of the First Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Gerald Wheat officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Miss Cremeans wore a floor length cream colored dress with a V neck and empire waist. Her hair was accented with baby's breath. The bridal corsage contained yellow roses and white daisies.

Patty Bennett of Washington C.H. was the matron of honor and Bob Chaney served as best man.

Mrs. Copas, mother of the bride, wore a floor length mint green dress trimmed in white lace. Mrs. Klontz's floor length gown was blue.

After a wedding trip to Cincinnati, the couple will reside at 110 E. Market St., in Washington C.H.

The new Mrs. Klontz is a 1977 graduate of Miami Trace High School and is employed at Bennett's Ice Cream Shop. Mr. Klontz, a 1976 graduate of Miami Trace High School is employed at the Huntington Bank in Washington C.H.

'Beautiful Autumn' theme of Kings Daughters

The King's Daughters Class of the First Christian Church of Washington C.H. met at the home of Elizabeth Fullerton, Monday. Norma Flee was the assisting hostess.

President Martha Meriweather gave as her opening thought, "a reminder of our beautiful autumn."

Devotions entitled, "Temperance," were given by Mrs. Flee. Scripture used was Luke 12:21. Verna Williams sang "In the Hour of Trial" accompanied by Margaret Gibson. Poems read were "A New Day Dawning," "Standing at the Window" and "For Rent." Mrs. Flee closed with prayer.

The study lesson conducted by Miss Gibson was "The Miracle of the Plagued Pharaoh". Genesis 12:10-20 was the scripture used.

Twelve members answered roll call with verses or thoughts about autumn. Minutes of the last meeting were read by Elizabeth Hall. Gertrude Butler gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Meriweather reported on the certificate presented to Mrs. Naomi Helm for her many years of teaching the class.

MISS SHIRLEY HUMPHRIES

Miss Humphries to wed Mr. Cox

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Humphries of Cynthia have announced the engagement of their daughter, Shirley Ann, to Rick Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cox, East Monroe.

The bride-elect is a 1974 graduate of Western High School and is employed at Candle-Lite, Inc., in Leesburg. Mr. Cox graduated in 1973 from Fairfield High School and is employed by the Mid-Ohio Chemical Co., New Holland. A December wedding is planned.

were given. This project will be completed this week.

The "Deeper Life Crusade", a very spiritual meeting with women from all area churches will be held Oct. 25 and 26.

Reports were given and cards are to be sent to shut-ins. A nominating committee, composed of Barbara Climer and Daisy Gossard, was appointed.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Lucille Greer with Mrs. Climer assisting.

The meeting was closed with the class benediction. Refreshments of pumpkin pie, mints, and coffee and tea were served by the hostesses with Lydia Hale assisting.

Judson Circle holds meeting

The Ann Judson Circle of the First Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. William Cook. Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Jerry Thompson served homemade pumpkin pie and coffee preceding the meeting to the members.

Mrs. Charles Hurtt opened the meeting by reading, "Women's Status Feminine". Mrs. Margaret Alkire gave devotions using "Why Worry". She read from Philippians 4, 3-7 and a poem, "My Peace I Give to You" and closed with prayer.

Olive Chaney read the secretary's report and also letters from the missionaries Dick and Jackie Rutter in Peru and the Dayton Christian Center. Offerings were taken. Mrs. Leola Best gave the prayer.

Miss Mable Briggs gave a very interesting program taken from the program book, "Women of God." She read "Mine are Hungry" and an article by Joanna Moore, missionary and a poem, "Aren't You Glad?"

The women were reminded of the World Community Day November 4 at the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church and of the Baptist Women's Day of Prayer November 7 at the Sugar Creek Church.

The meeting closed with a circle of prayer.

Wedding plans completed

The open church wedding of Mary Debra Dunn and Richard M. Boggs will be held Saturday, Oct. 22 at 2:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church.

Eloise Mechling of Glenford will present a half hour of organ music prior to the ceremony. Soloists will be John and Sue Simmons, also of Glenford. The Rev. Gerald Wheat will conduct the ceremony.

Miss Dunn has asked Karen Klasman of Canal Winchester to be her maid of honor. Wendy Minor of Lancaster and Karen Zarker of Newark will be bridesmaids. The flower girl will be Ann Shrider of Oxford.

Mr. Boggs has asked Dale Reno of Columbus to perform the duties of best man. David McCoy of Michigan and Mike Kelly of Washington C.H. will serve as groomsmen. The ring bearer will be David Shrider of Oxford. Dennis and Pat Dunn, brothers of the bride, will serve as ushers. Brian Dunn, brother of the bride, will light the candles preceding the wedding.

A reception will be held immediately following the ceremony in Persinger Hall.

Beta Omega

Beta Omega Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority members met recently in the home of Mrs. Wayne Clark, president, to make posters for their forthcoming skating party to be held from 6:30 until 9:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 2, at Roller Haven. Tickets are $1 in advance or $1.25 at the door.

Posters were also made for their first Craft Fair to be held Sunday, Nov. 20 at the National Guard Armory from 10:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. All proceeds will go to the Washington Court House Fire Department. Anyone interested as an exhibitor, notice the posters that have been distributed throughout the community or contact Mrs. Ted Craig.

Those members present were Mrs. Dennis Holloway, Mrs. Jim McCracken, Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Craig.

Circle nine

Circle 9 of Grace United Methodist Church met Tuesday morning in the church parlor with Mrs. Mary Jo Arnold in charge of the opening. She read "Meditation of Daily Prayers."

Mrs. Ruth Wientjes and Cindi Shoemaker were introduced as new circle members. Mrs. Arnold also announced the Talent Jar Opening for 1:30 p.m. Nov. 2 in the chapel.

The following forthcoming events and meetings were announced: World Community Day at the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church Nov. 4; Leadership Training Workshops; and the Annual Conference for Nov. 12.

The remainder of the meeting was spent planning and preparing for the luncheon to be served during the Christmas bazaar Nov. 19 at Grace Methodist Church.

A craft day was scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Nov. 1 with a salad luncheon at noon to complete an assortment of craft items for the Christmas bazaar.

Following the meeting, Mrs. Clark introduced Kathi Jenkins, who shared her experiences as an American Field Service exchange student in Bolivia last summer. She gave a very unique and informative presentation of Bolivia and its history, geography and people.

She also introduced Dan Santos, an AFS student from Argentina attending Miami Trace now.

Rolls and coffee were served to the following members: Mrs. Arnold, Mrs. Ruth Carr, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Jane Huff, Mrs. Joyce Jinks, Mrs. Joyce Lott, Mrs. Marilyn Marcy, Mrs. Marilee Peterson, Mrs. Barbara Ragland, Mrs. Cindi Shoemaker, Mrs. Janet Sollars, Mrs. Ruth Wientjes, Mrs. Doris Weber, Mrs. Sue Jenks and Mrs. Peggy Vrettos.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two great performances in one show are coming to public TV in most areas Sunday night. The performances are by Charles Durning and Tyne Daly; the show is "The Dancing Bear."
"Bear," by Conrad Bromberg, is from the fine "Visions" series of original TV dramas made at KCET here. A 90-minute effort, it's a bittersweet tale of life, love and the Hollywood scuffle.
Its premise is that the one thing an actor never loses is hope — not even if he lives in Hollywood, is middle-aged, pot-bellied, broke, paying child support and hasn't worked in six months.
The veteran character actor in this condition is played by Durning, so good a few years ago in CBS' "Queen of the Stardust Ballroom."
Miss Daly, excellent as the lady cop in "Dirty Harry," now plays a young, warm, occasionally bitter Hollywood waif who starts a love affair with Durning after they meet in an unemployment line.
"Bear" begins a mite slow as Durning, alone in his seedy apartment, begins his day by squinting in a mirror and saying such things as "You have the face of an undercooked egg roll."
He gets a call from his young daughter (Quinn Cummings) who wants him to take her to school. She lives with his alcoholic ex-wife (Verna Bloom), a fading beauty and would-be actress.
This leads to a scene in which we learn he desperately wants custody of the child and that both parents still fight. Example: When he notes the wife's last lover has gone, she gets quite mad and nasty.

"You left me, remember?" he then snaps. "You and the boy starlet were bound for glory. You dumped me, then he dumped you. And after three years, a succession of guys ..."
This is expository dialogue, the bad kind. But stick around. The show quickly eases into sure, moving sketches of a decent, optimistic loser who still believes he'll make it in Rona Barrett Country.
For him, the main event is a minor role in a movie. It calls for a "heavyset" type able to do a brutally vigorous Russian dance.
No matter that his doctor advises him to lose weight or die. He's always played heavyset types and claims his pot-belly is "my meal ticket."
Miss Daly enters his life at the unemployment office. In jig time, we learn she's a sad ex-radical, an apprentice loser who slept with a guy to get her first Hollywood job — in a film firm that promptly folded.
An affair commences amid chat on hope and no hope. But he, the defender of hope, loses it at the big audition before a young, sadistic director ("Bear" director Burt Brinckerhoff plays the director).
Despite an ambiguous non-Hollywood ending, much of the program revolves around old Hollywood clichés. No problem, though. In "Bear," they're well-done for the most part, and it's a good drama.

Fat fashion show staged

LOS ANGELES (AP) — While toothpick-thin models paraded past buyers at the California Mart, a heftier contingent was staging a much larger trade and fashion show.
"Big Is Beautiful," the first major national exhibit of fashions for fat women, drew an overflow crowd to the Mart theater this week to view bulky models bouncing down the runway in jogging suits, negligees and evening gowns.

There were shouts, applause and wolf whistles.
"The message of the show is that just because you're overweight, you don't have to look dowdy and ugly," said Marilyn Wheeler, the Mart's special events coordinator who planned the unique three-day exhibit and fashion show.
"There are intelligent, aggressive, witty big women who don't want to wear a tent forever," said Miss Wheeler.
The trade show features 62 manufacturers specializing in the large and half-size market — sizes 18 to 52.
There were a few problems backstage, Miss Wheeler noted. "We realized we couldn't have the models changing back-to-back. And a size 20 sample just didn't fit all of them."
David London, whose wife, Nancy Austin, is a top designer for heavy women, said, "Over 30 per cent of the women in this country are in large and half sizes. That's 22 million American women in our market."
Seven years ago London and his wife — who now weighs 273 pounds — opened a small Las Vegas boutique for "Queen-sized women."
Ms. Austin, a comedienne, had appeared on a TV show and was inundated with mail from big women asking: "Where can I find clothes like yours?"
"We opened our boutique with 300 garments and in the first week we sold all but 23 pieces," she recalled.
Nancy Austin Fashions now has four stores and a factory that distributes to specialty shops across the country. They also sell large-size patterns for home sewers.
Ms. Austin said she's fighting fashion stereotypes imposed on fat women. "We make very few garments in black ... I remember having nothing to choose from but black button-down-the-front dresses."
"We emphasize color and a youthful look," said Ms. Austin, whose new collection includes decorated jeans, brightly printed handkerchief-style blouses and a long lacy peasant dress that doubles as a bridal gown.

Sexual discrimination key to lack of woman scientists

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the so-called "enlightened" world of science, why do women make up less than 10 per cent of the work force and those with doctorate degrees get salaries 19 per cent below their male counterparts?
Participants in a major conference on women in scientific research, which began Monday, say that when all the reasons and excuses are analyzed, the bottom line of the equation reads sexual discrimination.
Sixty women with doctorates in various sciences are meeting with government, business and academic leaders to analyze the problem and to make recommendations on how women can get a fairer shake in science.
The meeting, sponsored by the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the National Science Foundation, hopes to assure that men and women get equal access to research and educational opportunities.
"We know that statistically, the position of women in science is not getting better," said Dr. Janet Brown, head of the association's Office of Opportunities.
"But we have a gut feeling it's getting better in some areas and we want to find out for sure," she said.
Betty M. Vetter, executive director of the Scientific Manpower Commission, a private organization set up by the nation's major scientific societies to monitor scientific personnel, said the statistics on women generally are discouraging.
"In 1973, the salary difference was 17 per cent between men doctorate scientists and engineers and women doing comparable work," she said. "This gap increased to 19 per cent by 1975, indicating that despite affirmative action programs things are not improving for women in general."

PUCO authorizes DP&L electric hike

Columbia ordered to answer charges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Columbia Gas Transmission Corp. was ordered Wednesday to answer Atty. Gen. William J. Brown's charges of mismanagement.

The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, in denying Columbia's motion to be dismissed from the case, ordered the utility to answer Brown's charges before Nov. 4.

Meanwhile, PUCO decided not to investigate charges of profiteering leveled by Ohio Consumer Council William Spratley against six major utilities, and authorized Dayton Power & Light to increase its electric rates enough to bring in another $569,000 a year.

Brown said last April that mismanagement and mistakes within the gas transmission corporation and its distribution companies directly contributed to last winter's energy crisis.

Last month, PUCO ordered Columbia Gas of Ohio to answer Brown's charges by Oct. 27. A similar request by Columbia LNG to be dismissed from the case is pending.

Brown said PUCO's decision means the transmission company can be monitored by the State of Ohio. He is asking PUCO to make the company report its available natural gas and gas storage facilities.

The attorney general also wants PUCO to order Columbia Gas to lower its rates to reflect the damage he says Ohio's economy suffered during the energy crisis, or refund the money to its customers.

PUCO dropped the charges against the six utilities after Spratley notified them he did not want his letter alleging the companies made excess profits to be considered a formal complaint.

The companies Spratley accused were Ohio Bell, Cincinnati Gas & Electric, Cleveland Electric Illuminating, United Telephone, Columbia Gas of Ohio and East Ohio Gas.

The increase granted DP&L is $2,000 more than originally approved by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio last July, but still well below the $30 million hike DP&L had sought.

Wednesday's rehearing of the rate request was granted because of computation errors in original case.

PUCO awarded DP&L a $567,000 increase in its July 22 decision. "But the figures (on which it was based) were wrong, so we refigured and came out with almost same number," a PUCO spokesman said.

PUCO said in July it denied most of the increase because the utility filed too early and did not show enough experience under their rate structure to demonstrate they deserved the increase. "In short, they did not make their case," the spokesman said.

DP&L now will file a new rate structure with the commission reflecting the increase. The new rates would take effect 30 days after approved by the commission.

The utility provides electricity to about 400,000 customers in 24 southwestern Ohio counties.

The commission Wednesday also reduced from 98.64 to 98.28 DP&L's Target Thermal Efficiency, which is a measure of how efficiently the utility produces electricity. If a utility consistently fails to meet its TTE, the commission may consider this cause to deny rate hikes.

To aid construction industry

Prompt action sought on spending measure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — House sponsors were expected to ask concurrence in Senate amendments today to the state's $524 million capital improvements bill, sending it to Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, who carried it through the Senate successfully Wednesday, said leaders of both chambers want prompt action because the bill would act as a stimulant to Ohio's ailing construction industry.

The two-year "bricks and mortar" bill — a separate item from the state's biennial operating budget — cleared the upper chamber 31-1 with Sen. Paul Pfeifer, R-26 Bucyrus, the lone dissenter, without explanation.

Due in part to a decline in the need for more higher education facilities, the new biennium's $524 million total compares to $580 million for the 1975-1976 biennium. Higher education this time would receive $205 million, compared to $250 million last time.

The lion's share in the current bill otherwise goes to mental health and mental retardation, $209.4 million, while $68 million is for the natural resources department for new and improved parks and recreational facilities.

The other outlays are: Attorney general, $21,187; agriculture, $105,000; administrative services, $2.2 million; commerce department, $25,000; educational television network, $486,000; state school for the deaf, $412,000; Ohio Historical Society, $180,000; state school for the blind, $75,000; Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Orphans' Home, $215,000; youth commission, $500,000; rehabilitations and corrections, $5.3 million; adjutant general, $3.6 million, and Ohio Commission on Aging, $2.5 million.

Industrial relations department, $100,000; transportation department, $453,000; bureau of employment services, $7.4 million; Ohio Expositions Commission, $4.8 million; emergency all purposes fund (controlling board), $4.6 million.

Although the Senate approved the bill overwhelmingly, debate flared briefly over an ill-fated floor amendment changing a feasibility study for a new sports arena at the University of Cincinnati.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, sought in the amendment to expand the study so that the project might or might not include an arena in what he called "a multipurpose center."

Senators defeated the amendment 22-9, saying it reflected a local dispute, and wasn't needed.

The capital improvements bill contained at least three major Senate changes for the House to consider today.

The Senate stripped from the bill a House requirement for 10 per cent of the state's public construction contracts to be set aside for minority contractors in Ohio, including firms controlled by blacks and women.

Senators provided instead that the administrative services department and board of regents would set aside specific projects on which minority contractors and small businesses only could submit competitive bids. The dollar amount of such projects was not specified. The bill defines minority and small businesses as those with fewer than 50 employees.

Football: a team effort

By KELLY MOUNTS

There is always that one player who really stands out above the rest. He gets cheers from the grandstands, his picture is in the paper, and the admiration of the student body. But let's put this one player on that football field by himself. With no one to help him, no matter how great a player he is, he cannot play the game. It takes a whole team!

When a boy in in the fifth and sixth grades, he joins a brand new world of sports. He becomes a Pony League Player. Suddenly he is there in the sportswear department, where the sales clerk is puzzled as to who is more embarrassed; the boy or his mother, as he shops for his first athletic supporter. Next he is shoved into hip pads, slapped with knee pads, and after the shoulder pads go on, he looks at himself and laughs as he sees a figure much like Brutus, Popeye's No. 1 rival for Olive Oyl. Then the bruises, knocks, jammed fingers, sore muscles and chewing-outs!! The neighborhood gang had some great games without having to go through all of this! Oh no, he's hurt. He's out there on that big field, at 65 pounds, a big fat kid on top first then what seems like a 100 on top of the fat kid, and all those people looking on. For the first time he realizes he's a football player; a big boy, and big boys don't cry. Not here, what would dad think? And so begins, the making of a team.

We find out 65-pound Pony Leaguer advancing now. He's not 65 pounds anymore and he's not treated like he is. Junior High practices are a little harder, but only because the games are tougher. The new coach yells a little louder and expects more. More sprints, more drills, time and effort. That same fat kid still seems to fall on top, but it doesn't hurt so bad anymore. The Junior High football team has gone through two fast seasons and now its time to move on. There are new coaches, new plays and even new positions to get used to all over again.

Our team has been promoted to Freshmen. There are new responsibilities along with privileges. The freshmen are practicing on the same field as the varsity team, but the student body has given the seniors all of the credit. Let's hear it for the whole freshmen team for they, too, will some day be those starting seniors.

Our team has risen now to sophomores, meaning eligibility for the varsity team. Not many sophomores get this privilege, but there are a few who do. This team is sort of caught in the middle, neither having the attention of the younger players nor experiencing the fame of the varsity team. Anticipation builds as they wait until their junior year arrives because this means playing on the varsity team.

Our players are now waiting to run on the field for the first game of the season and start proving their ability to be on varsity. The long awaited for varsity team consists mostly of juniors and seniors with seniors primarily in the lime light. There are still hard practices, lectures, bruises, bumps, scrapes and cuts but somehow there is something special to being on the varsity team. Maybe it shows accomplishment or maybe its nice to feel the unity that was instilled long ago as Pony Leaguers is still there. Our players are now seniors on the varsity team working together as one. Let's hear it for the whole team.

WSHS new assistant principal

Creamer adjusting to new job

As assistant principal, Mr. Jon Creamer is in charge of all attendance, activities, including extra curricular, supervision of building maintenance, and disciplining the student body. Mr.

Creamer says his job is not only very busy and challenging but rewarding as well. He wanted this job because of the new experience and the challenge of organizing the school to hopefully see it become successful.

Besides being assistant principal at Washington, Mr. Creamer is also a devoted family man. He enjoys being with his wife Bonnie and his two daughters Amy (3) and Krista(5).

Before coming to Washington, Mr. Creamer worked in the Wilmington School District where he coached the Jr. High football team.

For two years after coming to Washington, he taught various history courses, acted as Athletic Director and was coach for varsity football. Mr. Creamer said one of the most memorable events in his career was the 1973 state championship won by the football team.

Since this is Mr. Creamer's first year of being assistant principal, he says he misses being with students in the classroom. He went on to add that the student body is very understanding and cooperative. He also stated that in the future, he would like to see the students become more responsible for their own learning, which consequently, would make his job a lot easier.

Blue Lion of the week

By GALE LUCAS

Linnie Harper a senior at Washington Senior High School has been chosen as Lion of the Week.

Linnie is the editor and a very dedicated member of the Sunburst staff. She often gives up her weekends and nights just to work on Sunburst. She is also an active member of AFS. Besides these two clubs, she is the treasurer of the National Honor Society. To top everything off, she is at the top academically at the high school. She does a great job and never leaves anything incomplete. She has been a great help to our high school, and people can always count on her to be there when they need her. So on behalf of the Washington Senior High School—thank you.

LINNIE HARPER

Blue Lion mascot roams on Friday

If on Fridays you see a blue creature roaming the halls, don't be alarmed it's just our mascot Jodi Lee Borden.

You can also see Jodi at our pep assemblies, helping paint signs, and of course at our games showing her true-blue spirit. Just a warning, though you may hear her before you see her!

Our mascot this year is a sophomore and lives at 408 Van Deman. Her duty as mascot is to keep up the team spirit, and to keep spirit burning in the fans.

Greenfield man held in drug sale attempt

Washington C.H. police officers arrested a Greenfield man Wednesday in connection with the attempted sale of narcotics.

Police officers responded to a reported complaint of a person attempting to sell drugs in the Dublin Bar, 216 E. Court St., around 12:55 a.m. Wednesday. According to the police department report, investigating officers questioned an unidentified man and confiscated an undisclosed amount of capsules.

Following further investigation, police officers arrested Claude E. Everhart, 23, of Greenfield, and charged him with trafficking of a controlled substance. Everhart had been arrested earlier on a charge of disorderly conduct by intoxication. He is currently being held in the city jail pending a hearing in Washington C.H. Municipal Court.

Police officers also charged a local man with possession of marijuana Wednesday.

While on patrol near Market and Bereman streets, officers stopped Randy L. Farmer, 18, 411 Rawlings St., and cited him for driving while under suspension. Upon searching Farmer's vehicle, officers said they found a plastic bag of a substance suspected of being marijuana. According to the report, Farmer and the evidence were taken into custody and transported to police headquarters where tests of the substance confirmed it was marijuana.

Farmer was charged with possession and is currently being held in the city jail in lieu of bond.

Vandals spray-painted eight automobiles Wednesday night while they were parked in the Fayette County Memorial Hospital parking lot.

The damage was discovered around 8:15 p.m. when a hospital employee made a check of the parking lot, Washington C.H. police officers reported. The vandals reportedly sprayed the bodies and grills of the vehicles with a dark blue lacquer.

Investigating officers reported the vehicles were cleaned with paint thinner, which held the damage estimates down to about $10.

Traffic Court

A number of signed waivers for speeding citations issued by Ohio Highway Patrol officers were received in Washington C.H. Municipal Court Wednesday.

Those paying fines and court costs included Julius Conison, 56, of Cincinnati, $30; Paul Twinn, 47, Galena, $30; Helen L. Smith, 38, Bainbridge, $30; William H. Sharp Jr., 35, of New Carlisle, $30; Gary W. Penwell, 32, Upper Marlboro, Md., $35; Charles W. Newland, 36, Columbus, $30; and Alice J. Hill, 27, of Cincinnati, $35.

Municipal Court

Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge John P. Case convicted a Greenfield resident of disorderly conduct by intoxication during a trial Wednesday.

Found guilty of the charge was 23-year-old Claude E. Everhart of Greenfield. Judge Case fined Everhart $50, plus court costs, for the offense. He was arrested by Washington C.H. police officers following a disturbance in the Dublin Bar, 216 E. Court St., early Wednesday morning.

Another candy bar to honor Jackson

CHICAGO (AP) — Standard Brands Inc., the company that makes the Baby Ruth Candy bar, says it's accelerating its schedule for marketing a candy bar named "Reggie, Reggie, Reggie," after Reggie Jackson, the New York Yankee slugger.

Tuesday, as the Yankees were winning the World Series, Jackson slammed three home runs, tying Babe Ruth's record for the most homers in one World Series game.

"Today would have been the perfect day" to begin marketing the new bar, Charles Tate, product manager for new projects said Wednesday.

Ohio school board member appointed

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Richard C. Glowacki of Toledo has been appointed to the State Board of Education by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Glowacki will complete the unexpired term of David R. Rittenhouse, of Toledo, who resigned in August. The term runs through Dec. 31, 1978.

Area students to receive one-day holiday on Friday

School children in Fayette County will be having a holiday on Friday when their teachers go back to school on Central Ohio Teachers Association day.

Classes in both the Washington C.H. and Miami Trace school districts will be dismissed all day on Friday while the teachers attend in-service training sessions designed to promote instructional and professional development. The training for area teachers is annually sponsored by the Central Ohio Teachers Association.

Over 5,000 teachers from the central Ohio area are expected to gather at the Ohio State Fairgrounds in Columbus to hear keynote speaker, Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, formerly secretary of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and currently chairman of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights.

Following Dr. Flemming's address, the teachers will then choose among 45 various workshops from dance to the basics of reading; from competency based instruction to individualizing teaching methods. Additionally, thousands of other central Ohio teachers will be attending 15 other more specialized, departmental workshops at other locations in the area of participating in staff development programs organized in their own school buildings.

Of particular interest to many teachers will be a package of eight workshops dealing with different aspects of school desegregation. Several outstanding personalities such as Dr. William Wayson, Dr. Anthony C. Riccio, Ramond MacFarlane and Phyllis Greer will focus on curriculum planning, counseling issues, teacher training and teachers' mental health in a newly desegregated setting.

Local youth named winner of regional electric award

Jeff Schlichter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Schlichter, 10187 Prairie Road, has been selected as the Eastern Regional Electrification Award winner and will compete in a national Future Farmers of America (FFA) contest.

Schlichter, a member of the Miami Trace High School FFA chapter, will compete with three other regional winners at the national contest to be held at the National FFA Convention Nov. 8-11 in Kansas City, Mo.

The eastern region in which Schlichter was the winner includes Ohio and 13 other states. He conducted various electric wiring projects on the farm and in the home to receive the honor.

Schlichter has been a member of various FFA judging teams. He was a member of the second place parliamentary procedure team and placed second in beef production in the state competition.

For winning the district competition, Schlichter received $25 and a plaque; $100 and a trophy for winning the state competition, and $250 for winning the regional contest. The awards were

Friends to salute Humphrey

WASHINGTON (AP) — In glasses raised warmly to an old friend, in tributes spoken and unspoken, the life and times of Hubert H. Humphrey will be celebrated in style tonight by a few of his friends.

About three thousand of them. They will gather for an "Evening in Honor of Hubert H. Humphrey," an affair Humphrey is too ill to attend. He has not returned to Washington since surgeons discovered inoperable pelvic cancer Aug. 18.

And they will seek to remember Humphrey's admonition to "not make anything maudlin of this. ... It should be an evening of fun, a happy time for everyone." "He told us not to make this a sad affair," said longtime friend Joe Dillon, the former mayor of St. Paul, Minn., who is now a Washington attorney.

"And that's why we're going to have dancing and dinner and cocktails and entertainers and all the rest. But you know and I know that it will be very sad, for all of us ... how could anybody help it?"

Until a few days ago, Humphrey planned to attend, even if he had to go right back to Minnesota for the treatments he has been undergoing for the cancer.

Economy's slow growth to result in tax cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tax cuts for businesses and individuals next year appear a step closer with release of government figures showing the nation's economy is growing too slowly to keep unemployment from getting worse.

The Commerce Department said Wednesday the nation's economy grew at an annual rate of only 3.8 per cent in the three-month period ending in September, compared with 6.2 per cent in the second quarter of the year and 7.5 per cent in the first three months.

The scale measures growth of the gross national product, which is the value of the total production of goods and services in the economy. Most economists believe a 4 per cent growth rate is necessary to keep up with the expanding labor force.

Commerce Secretary Juanita M. Kreps said the low third-quarter growth "strongly suggests the need for further tax reduction."

It was the strongest statement to date by a top administration official on the need for a tax cut to stimulate the economy.

The Commerce Department's chief economist, Courtenay M. Slater, agreed with the secretary, saying, "the logic points to the need for a tax reduction. There is mounting evidence that some time next year would be the appropriate time."

President Carter has said he will consider a tax cut to stimulate the economy if the economy needs special help next year. But he said he wants to further assess the performance of the economy before deciding on the timing or the amount of the tax cut.

Ms. Slater said the third quarter slowdown was primarily due to reduced consumer spending, especially spending on automobiles and on food.

She said the growth report was "just one more piece of evidence — a fairly important piece of evidence — that we appear to need a tax reduction if we want to maintain the kind of growth rates we're talking about."

Treasury Secretary Michael W. Blumenthal appeared less convinced, telling the American Bankers' Association in Houston that, "We must learn to ignore month-by-month ups and downs that yield neither to our understanding nor to our control."

He told the bankers the nation's "important economic woes are long-term and chronic in character. They will not yield to the quick fix."

In its economic growth report Wednesday, the Commerce Department also reported a reduction in the nation's inflation rate in the third quarter to 5.1 per cent annual rate, down from a 7.1 per cent rate in the second quarter.

Lawmakers reject school measure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State lawmakers, attempting to deal with the threatened closing of the state's largest school district, have been superseded by a federal judge in Cleveland.

Legislation to give the Cleveland school district temporary borrowing authority to meet a $19 million deficit already appeared to be headed for certain defeat Wednesday when word of the court order reached the Senate floor.

The bill was subsequently rejected 19-13, although supporters held out hope it could be reconsidered today when the Senate and House return for the second and final day of the abbreviated October session.

Before entering into the three-hour debate on the school bill, the Senate approved 31-1 a $524 million capital improvements budget. The bill to fund state construction over the next two years was expected to receive House concurrence today and go on to Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Lawmakers on both sides of the school issue reacted angrily when news of U.S. District Judge Frank J. Battisti's ruling reached the Senate floor.

Battisti, who is presiding over desegregation proceedings in Cleveland, said Cleveland schools would not close while other schools in the state remain open.

The 110,000-pupil district, which ran out of operating money earlier this week, according to Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson, had been slated to shut down after classes Friday, barring legislative relief. Battisti's order apparently negated that.

Forty-six districts have asked to be audited to certify 1977 shortages and 27 have had their financial plight confirmed by Ferguson. Unlike Cleveland, however, a number of them, including the 54,000-pupil Toledo district hope to stay open by winning voter approval of higher property taxes.

Opposition to the bill permitting a school district to borrow against 1978 tax revenues to meet deficits this year, focused on the possible negative influence of the "bail out" plan, in districts with tax levies on the ballot.

No longer will school officials be able to say, "If we don't pass this levy, we can't run our schools," claimed Sen. Paul Pfeifer, R-26 Bucyrus.

Pfeifer questioned why the Cleveland situation did not come to light in the legislature until last month. "Either the Cleveland district was not honest and forthright with the legislature and the people of Cleveland, or else they (school officials) are incompetent," he said.

The Cleveland school board decided not to ask voters to approve a tax levy—the district has a high tax effort—believing the "cash flow" problem was due to a temporary low ebb in revenues.

The one-time-only bill would permit enough borrowing this year to stay open, provided the money is repaid on a strict schedule by Jan. 1, 1978. Schools taking advantage of the temporary borrowing authority would have to have their repayment schedules approved by the auditor and state superintendent of public instruction.

"The issue right now is whether 110,000 students end up out of school for the next two months," said Sen. Anthony J. Celebrezze Jr., D-25 Cleveland.

Sen. M. Morris Jackson, D-21 Cleveland, sponsor of the bill which went to the floor the same day it was introduced without so much as a committee hearing, said it would give the district "breathing time to solve its problem."

But Sen. Timothy McCormack, D-31 Euclid, who also represents a portion of Cleveland, opposed a "stopgap" answer to a problem he said developed over the years because of an eroding tax base in the central city.

If lawmakers were not engaged in an "exercise in futility" as Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron called it, before the Battisti order was disclosed, the judicial intervention assured that was the case.

"It may be easier to execute an order than it is to keep the schools open or solve a problem," said Ocasek, who favored the borrowing bill. "Regardless of your vote today, the court has decided that Cleveland schools should stay open."

Senate Minority Leader Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, who voted against the bill, said the Cleveland matter nevertheless was the "responsibility" of the legislature, not the court.

"It's our right under the constitution to make the judgment," Maloney said.

Lawyer buys his own saloon to display jazz piano talent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Everybody who reads the papers knows that the last person likely to starve in this town is a good lawyer.

Everybody also knows, or suspects, that persons whose lifelong ambition is to come to this town must be slightly off, so there ought to be plenty of business for a good psychiatrist, too.

Harold Kaufman is both, a lawyer and a psychiatrist. Neither being enough to satisfy him, he also is a teacher.

Where Harold Kaufman finds his greatest joy, though, is in playing jazz piano. Not just playing jazz piano, but playing it where it ought to be played, in a saloon. He likes doing that so much he went out and bought his own saloon.

"Practicing psychiatry and owning a saloon are complimentary," he said.

"People go to a psychiatrist to find help for personal and social reasons. I don't like casting a saloon in a clinical light, but that's also why they go to a bar."

"My training has been useful there, calming people down, settling conflicts. A good bartender can do the same thing, of course. He's not a substitute for a therapist, but anyone who listens with interest and understanding can be helpful to people."

Harold Kaufman is a smallish man of 45 with a head of thick, curly hair, heavy eyebrows, an abundant mustache, and a vocabulary that uses words like interface, but not often.

He was born in Elizabeth, N.J., took piano lessons from age 4 through high school and when he went to Harvard played in various bistros around Boston.

"I went to law school, at Harvard, mainly because law was the family profession. I was unconvinced I wanted to be a lawyer. After a couple of years in Europe thinking things over — I supported myself as a musician — I decided I wanted to be a psychiatrist."

So he went to medical school at the University of California, then into psychiatry, and eventually wound up in Washington at the National Institute for Mental Health.

For the past six years he has been in private practice, teaching on the side at Georgetown University.

Dayton man unhurt as truck flips

A Dayton man escaped injury when his truck-camper overturned along U.S. 35-NW near Bloomingburg-New Holland Road Wednesday night.

Tommy A. Moore, 47, of Dayton, lost control of the pick-up truck-camper when he hit a railroad crossing at the intersecting highways, Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported. The vehicle, which had reportedly been traveling at an excessive speed, ran off the right roadside, overturned and slid over 55 feet in a ditch where it damaged six rods of fence. The accident occurred about 9:15 p.m.

The vehicle sustained severe damages, but Moore was reportedly uninjured.

Sheriff's deputies said a citation against Moore for reckless operation is pending further investigation of the accident.

Sheriff's deputies also reported a deer ran into a car along Stuckey Road about half a mile south of Washington-Waterloo Road Wednesday night.

Hazel J. Whaley, 33, of 4873 Washington-Waterloo Road, reported to sheriff's deputies she was driving south on Stuckey Road about 10:05 p.m. when a deer ran onto the road from the right into the passenger side of her car. The vehicle received slight damage. It

Home sought for Gertrude

PALMETTO, Fla. (AP) — If the state doesn't hurry and find a new home for Gertrude, the mayor of this tiny city says he'll turn the 14-foot alligator into 20 pairs of shoes.

"I don't care what the yo-yos in Tallahassee say about killing alligators," says Mayor J.J. "Toby" Holland.

Holland says the ornery creature, which lives in the Palmetto sewer system's settling pond, ate an Irish setter, attacked a weeding machine, then nearly knocked down a fence trying to get a small dog who happened to stray near the pond.

Two weeks ago, agents of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission removed another gator from the pond in this Manatee County community and took it to a less populated area.

Then they tried to get Gertrude.

To entice her, they baited an iron hook with a dead rabbit. The hook came back empty — and looking like a huge iron straight pin.

Holland says he wasn't surprised. Gertrude tried to eat a backhoe last week.

Sanitation workers were using the machine to scoop weeds and cattails from the settling pond when Gertrude leaped from the water and grabbed the hoe, Holland says.

Workers raised it in the air, hoping to shake the gator loose. Gertrude's bite held, and she rose into the air along with the hoe. She finally let go after apparently finding it indigestible.

"We've had to chase a number of neighborhood children away from the pond," says Holland.

Holland says the unfortunate Irish setter was swimming across the pond when Gertrude attacked.

"Gertrude decided she wanted dog meat and that was that," Holland says.

Holland says he'll ask wildlife officers once more to move Gertrude to a less populated area.

Torrijos taps provide more bedroom banter than inside info

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — The private telephone calls of Panamanian strongman Omar Torrijos have been monitored by the U.S. Army for years. The eavesdropping has produced more bedroom banter, however, than inside information.

Congress has been trying to subpoena the results of the electronic surveillance ever since it leaked out that the Army had been caught eavesdropping in Panama. But both the State and Justice Departments have joined the Army in blocking congressional access to this sensitive material.

From our own inside sources, however, we have learned that the Army intercepted the telephone calls of just about every important official in Panama City. The monitoring was stepped up in 1973 when the Panama Canal negotiations began in earnest, with the Army snoops zeroing in on conversations that might deal with the treaty.

Torrijos was a major target of the eavesdropping effort. All calls to and from his country home were monitored. A portrait emerged from the secret telephone transcripts of a roistering military dictator who drinks too much and loves too many, a conniver who has mastered the mechanics of intrigue without learning the art of governing.

His phone was answered by a maid who called herself "Abuela," which means grandmother. It was difficult for callers to get through to Torrijos, the Army found, because the maid would talk for hours to anyone who called. The eavesdroppers got bored listening to the maid's endless conversations.

Those who reached Torrijos, our sources say, included a number of women who talked as if they were his mistresses. The ruggedly handsome dictator, with much macho, engaged these women in intimate bedroom talk. He also made many telephone calls while under the influence of liquor.

Once at a dedication of a dam, Torrijos impulsively plunged into the water. Other officials joined him with great splashing and newspapers ran pictures of the dictator at play.

But our sources learned from their surveillance that Torrijos was blind drunk at the time. His subordinates followed him into the water to minimize his embarrassment.

We first got wind of the buggings in Panama several months ago. The calls were intercepted by trained operators from the 408th Company of the Army Security Agency. The monitoring equipment was hidden in a small trailer on a remote hill in the Panamanian capital.

Our sources insist that Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, who headed the U.S. negotiating team in Panama, should have had knowledge of the electronic surveillance. The Army turned over records of the bugged conversations to the National Security Agency, which regularly briefed Bunker, they told us.

There have been published allegations that one of the Army's eavesdroppers sold the monitored conversations to the Panamanians. But our sources claim several Army officers sold out to the dictator. The Army has never prosecuted these officers, the sources say, for fear of disclosing the sensitive surveillance operation.

Footnote: The Army refused to comment. Bunker also had nothing to say.

Banking Blues: World bankers have suddenly discovered that they are tetering on a shaky financial limb. Western banks, including the U.S. banking colossuses, are stuck with billions in bad and endangered loans.

International bankers have told us the secret figures: $170 billion in bad loans, $290 billion in endangered loans. This has produced a severe strain on the international financial system.

The principal cause of the great credit crisis, of course, is the catapulting price of oil. Most nations have refused to reduce living standards to pay off the oil potentates. This has compelled these nations to borrow heavily to meet their oil bills.

U.S. loans to foreign countries have soared to a staggering $207 billion. Of that amount, $45 billion has gone to struggling Third World nations. Half the assets of the largest U.S. banks, which do most of the lending, are now in international operations.

This heavy tide of foreign loans has left the big U.S. banks in a precarious position. Result: the money managers are scrambling behind the scenes in Washington to protect the banks from a financial crash. For major defaults overseas would cause shock waves that would rock the U.S. banking system.

The Federal Reserve Board is manipulating the financial levers to bolster the banks. But the Fed, unfortunately, has no control over the money supply outside the United States.

Congress has also provided additional escape hatches for banks in the tax codes. Most of them are too complex to explain here. But the story is told in the statistics.

A congressional study, not yet released to the public, notes that the effective tax rates of commercial banks has declined from 37 per cent in 1952 to about 15 per cent today. In 1975, nine of America's largest banks paid only a 10.6 per cent tax rate. This means the rest of the taxpayers must pay the taxes that the banks escape.

The congressional investigation, spurred by Rep. Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, has uncovered a number of tax plums for the bankers buried in the fine print of the tax codes. These range from foreign tax credits to accelerated depreciation. To reduce taxes, banks have also been getting into the tax-blessed business of equipment leasing.

Acreage set-aside program expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland is wavering on announcing an acreage set-aside program to cut back 1978 corn production.

"We won't have a set-aside unless we see we're going to be overrun with corn," Bergland told a group of Delaware farmers here this week.

Farmers this fall are harvesting what the Agriculture Department estimates to be a record corn crop of 6.3 billion bushels, more than exports now believe will be used in the coming year.

But sources in USDA say Bergland and some of his top advisers feel that world export demand for feed grains — including a potential increase in sales to the Soviet Union — may be larger in 1977-78 than currently expected.

Also, with an upsurge in cattle feeding and other livestock operations, domestic feed grain use may turn out to be larger in the coming year.

Right now, however, USDA projects the corn carryover supply next Oct. 1 — the beginning of the new 1978-79 marketing year — at around 1.35 billion bushels, up from 876 million this Oct. 1.

Bergland earlier this fall indicated that a decision on a 1978 feed grains set-aside program would be made by Oct. 1. Then it was decided to put it off until after the Oct. 12 crop report showing the new corn harvest estimate. As of last week, however, officials say a decision probably will be made around Nov. 1.

The 1978 wheat set-aside decision was announced Aug. 29 requiring farmers to reduce plantings from 1977 and then to set aside land equal to 20 per cent of the wheat they plant for next year's harvest to be assured of full benefits under the Food and Agriculture Act's target price provision. A 10 per cent set-aside for corn and other feed grains has been under consideration.

One of the most important reasons for Bergland now wavering on whether to have a 1978 corn set-aside at all involves a rather complicated relationship between price support loan rates and the target prices for next year's crop.

The 1978 corn target price is set by law at $2.10 a bushel. The loan rate will be $2 a bushel.

Under the program, if market prices are depressed as they are now — corn averaged $1.59 a bushel at the farm nationally last month — farmers who participate in the set-aside program, if it is announced, will be guaranteed payments to make up the difference between the loan rate and the target price.

Washington eyes Homecoming win

Lions need to stop Williams to stop three-game skid

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Editor

"We have got to stop Gary Williams. That's the key," stated Blue Lion head coach Paul Ondrus, speaking of this week's opponents, the Wilmington Hurricane. The Lions are in the midst of a three-game losing streak that has seen their record fall to 2-4 overall and 0-3 in the SCOL.

Ondrus feels the Lions need to contain one man in the Wilmington offense, the aforementioned Williams. The all-sport standout is the Wilmington quarterback and throws and runs with power. At 6-foot-4, 194 pounds, he is very quick and possesses the ability to break games wide open.

"They have a great athlete in Williams," stated Ondrus. "Their offense revolves around him. He has tremendous ability and speed and is a threat to run or throw. He ran for more than 100 yards last week against Circleville just scrambling."

"He concerns us most and we have to stop him. But, when he goes back to pass, we have to let him throw. He's a lot more dangerous running the ball and if he scrambles, he's good for 10-20 yards. But, don't get me wrong, he has a very strong arm."

"Williams beat Hillsboro two weeks ago with a couple of bombs, 60-65 yards across the field. They scored all their points with him when he threw two touchdown passes and kicked a 38-yard field goal. We have to guard against any long bombs if we're going to win this one. We want to make them run the ball straight ahead with one of their backs, preferably not Williams," Ondrus continued.

Wilmington has an excellent offense, although it never quite got in gear last week against Circleville's tough defense. The Hurricane is tied for third in SCOL offense with Teays Valley with 91 points scored. They rank third in the league in rushing with 939 yards in six games but rank just sixth in passing. Williams, who took over the quarterbacking chores following an injury to Rick Earley, has the second best passing percentage in the SCOL. He has completed 14 of 28 passes for 50 percent. That is second only to Art Schlichter of Miami Trace and his 58 percent completion ratio.

Williams ranks sixth among SCOL passers with 265 yards. He has two very good receivers to look for, tight end Todd Martin (6-0, 170) and split end Earley (5-10, 162). Earley finally recovered from his injury but found his regular spot capably filled. So, he moved to split end and has teamed very well with Williams.

According to Ondrus, Earley runs good deep patterns, especially fly and post patterns on bombs. Martin has been on the receiving end of two of Williams touchdown passes.

Wilmington's running game boasts three fine runners in fullback Bill Regan (6-1, 184), tailback Dave Achtermann (5-10, 175) and wingback Dave Atsalis (5-7, 145).

All three have gotten their share of backfield duty, along with Williams. Regan is the best blocker of the three and is a powerful, straight-ahead runner. He has scored two touchdowns this season.

Achtermann came into the lineup earlier in the season when Atsalis was sidelined with an injury. The quick sophomore has scored four touchdowns, including two in a one game and is the second leading scorer for the Hurricane behind Williams.

Atsalis probably has the best speed of the three runners. He broke a 90-yard kickoff return last week against Circleville for his first score of the year. Atsalis, the cousin of SCOL leading rusher Bruce Ford of Hillsboro, has been slowed this season by nagging injuries.

"If they had their way, they would probably run a lot of off-tackle plays," Ondrus commented. "And, Atsalis is particularly good at running counters. But, I don't think their running game is all that great because of their line."

The Hurricane possesses some great size on the offensive line but little quickness. The right tackle, Steve Bear, looks everything like his name suggests at 6-foot-4, 262 pounds. The entire line averages about 5-11, 180 pounds.

On defense, the Hurricane runs two main sets. Their usual alignment is a '6-1 monster defense with six players on the line of scrimmage, a middle linebacker and a defensive back playing to the two-receiver side also on the line of scrimmage.

Their other alignment is a basic '6-2' with the monster back moving back into a linebacking position. "They beat Hillsboro with the 6-2 and they beat Greenfield with the 6-2," said Ondrus. "but they played the 6-1 monster last week with Circleville. I think they'll go back to the 6-2 because we're more of a threat to pass than Circleville."

Speaking of his own offense, Ondrus stated, "We hope to run at them. We ran at Greenfield last week but had mix-ups on blocking assignments that cost us the game."

"Also, we did not have a good performance out of our offensive ends and the passing game was terrible. The offensive ends did not block well and the quarterback did not hit his receivers. We hope to correct that this week."

On defense, Ondrus has changed from his basic '5-3' to a 6-1 double safety defense. He changed last week against Greenfield and the results reaped five interceptions and only nine points allowed.

Because of the defensive changes, personnel changes are also in abundance. Regular defensive tackle Duane Six will move to a defensive end position replacing Gary Huysman. The defensive tackles will be smaller and faster as Bill Rannels and Bob Rannels will be inserted into the spots.

Chet Hollar will move from defensive tackle to one of the defensive guard positions while Tate Wilson will be at the other guard slot. Huysman will make the move from defensive end to middle linebacker.

The cornerbacks and safeties will remain the same.

Another bad injury report from the Lion training camp states Jeff Elliott will be sidelined once again this week. Elliott sustained a bruise on the shoulder joint that he separated eight weeks ago. Ondrus reported that a physician recommended Elliott sit out this game. If the senior co-captain does see action, it will probably be strictly on defense.

LARRY BRICKLES

Blue Lions of the week

Larry Brickles and Jeff Elliott were selected as the top offensive and defensive players of the Blue Lions following last Friday's game with Greenfield. The selections were made following the viewing of the game films. Elliott, usually an offensive standout, was chosen the week's top defensive pick. From his downline position, Elliott played aggressive defense and was in the Greenfield backfield much of the night. The 5-10, 170-pounder collected 17 defensive points, by far the leader in that department. He had excellent pursuit and was instrumental in the defensive play against the Tigers. Brickles was the most consistent runner with 83 yards on 19 carries. He continues to be the leading rusher for the Blue Lions with 520 yards in six games, an average of 86.6 yards a game.

Lakers, Sixers win without big guns

By The Associated Press
So the Los Angeles Lakers didn't have Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, winner of the National Basketball Association's Most Valuable Player Award, a record-tying five times.

They had James Edwards. And the Philadelphia 76ers were without superstar Julius Erving.

It didn't matter. Both the Lakers, the winningest team in the NBA last season, and the 76ers, the losing finalist in the 1977 playoffs, played without their top performers Wednesday night and won easily.

Los Angeles, with the overlooked Edwards, a 7-foot rookie center from the University of Washington, replacing the injured Abdul-Jabbar and scoring 25 points and grabbing 14 rebounds, beat the Indiana Pacers 133-120.

And Philadelphia, minus the ailing Erving, got 32 points and 22 rebounds from George McGinnis in trouncing the Detroit Pistons 113-96.

In other NBA games, the Denver Nuggets whipped the Milwaukee Bucks 133-115, the San Antonio Spurs defeated the Boston Celtics 114-109, the Chicago Bulls downed the Houston Rockets 107-103, the Buffalo Braves topped the Kansas City Kings 112-108, and the Golden State Warriors walloped the Seattle SuperSonics 116-84.

"Edwards did a super job," Los Angeles Coach Jerry West said of his young third-round draft choice who played a team-high 40 minutes and hit 11 of 22 field goal attempts and three of four foul shots against Indiana.

Edwards started because Abdul-Jabbar has a broken bone in his right hand, suffered in a fight with Milwaukee rookie Kent Benson Tuesday night, and will be sidelined indefinitely.

McGinnis, a flop in last season's final playoff series against Portland, made up for the absence of Erving, out with a sprained knee, by firing in 20 points in the first half against Detroit as the 76ers opened a commanding 63-38 lead. "McGinnis was devastating," said Pistons Coach Herb Brown.

Nuggets 133, Bucks 115
David Thompson and Bobby Jones led a surge that enabled Denver to break away from a 100-100 tie against Milwaukee with less than 10 minutes remaining and beat the undermanned Bucks, playing without Benson, sidelined with a mild concussion. Thompson finished with 36 points and Jones had 26.

Bulls 107, Rockets 103
Mickey Johnson scored 19 points, including a field goal with less than six minutes left that put Chicago ahead for good 98-97, helping the Bulls win their second road game in two nights, against Houston.

Spurs 114, Celtics 109
A standing-room crowd of 10,466 in San Antonio watched the Spurs, led by George Gervin's 39 points, beat Boston for the first time in history.

Braves 112, Kings 108
Buffalo made new Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons' debut a success, beating Kansas City as Billy Knight scored 31 points and grabbed 15 rebounds, and Chuck Williams, replacing injured Tiny Archibald, had his NBA career high of 21 points.

Warriors 116, Sonics 84
Golden State ruined the coaching debut of Seattle's Bob Hopkins, routing the Sonics behind Rick Barry's 28 points and Phil Smith's 20.

Computer poll has four new leaders

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Parma Normandy used a victory over previously once-beaten Middleburg Heights Berea to take over the Class AAA Region 1 lead today in the Ohio High School Athletic Association's computerized football ratings.

Normandy (4-1-1) moved from sixth place last week to replace Mentor Lake Catholic, beaten by Lakewood St. Edward. Lake Catholic fell to third place behind No. 2 Cleveland St. Joseph in the region.

Otherwise, Cincinnati Moeller, top-rated statewide, Canton McKinley and Lima Senior held onto the other Class AAA regional leads in the ratings compiled by a Columbus computer firm.

The OHSAA uses the ratings to select its post-season playoff field. The leaders in each of the 12 regions for the three classes automatically qualify for the semifinals.

In AA this week, defending playoff champion Elyria Catholic replaced Beloit West Branch as the No. 1 team in Region 5. St. Marys also took over for Mansfield Malabar in Region 6. Canton Central Catholic and Loveland Hurst retained their AA leads.

In A, South Charleston Southeastern and Newark Catholic were new leaders, joining old hands Hamler Henry and Dalton.

Steinbrenner gets what he wants

Dreamer's dream comes true

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Among the pile of letters on George Steinbrenner's desk, critical and congratulatory, was one from a friend, quoting the poet Burton Braley:

"Back of the job, the dreamer,
"Making the dream come true."

"I like that," said the vigorous, controversial Tampa, Fla., ship builder, relishing the baseball success of his New York Yankees. When Reggie Jackson unleashed a record three straight home runs to power the Yankees to a clinching World Series victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers, Steinbrenner's dream came true.

"We had the horses," he said proudly, shedding criticism that the Yankees were a collection of gold dust superstars plucked from the exclusive shelf of the free-agent salon.

Jackson, who spearheaded the September pennant drive and became the Most Valuable Player of the World Series, cost a cool $2.9 million. Pitcher Jim "Catfish" Hunter wore a $3.75 million price tag. Pitcher Don Gullett was plucked from the Cincinnati Reds for $2 million.

"Let's face it," Steinbrenner said, "this is the new face of baseball. With the free-agent rulings, the only way to remain competitive is to be active on the open market. Our case is different than it was with Tom Yawkey and the Boston Red Sox years ago.

"The game has changed. The traditionalists in baseball will have to accept it. When I bought the Yankees my ambition was to rebuild the old Yankee dynasty. I wouldn't have been fair to the team or to our fans if I hadn't done everything possible, whatever the cost, to improve the club.

"That is my intention."

Steinbrenner was roundly criticized when he personally signed Jackson and inserted him in a team that had been good enough to win the American League pennant the year before. Manager Billy Martin, as well as such team stalwarts as Thurman Munson and Craig Nettles, resented it. The chemistry of the Yankees definitely changed. It was a season of turmoil ... and victory.

Jackson's faculty for delivery in the clutch vindicated the owner's judgment.

It was Steinbrenner who, when personal jealousies and outsized egos threatened to destroy the great Yankee machine in midseason, kept urging that Jackson bat cleanup, Lou Piniella play steady left field instead of being platooned, and pitchers Mike Torrez and Ed Figueroa be put into the rotation.

"Billy is the manager, I don't demand," Steinbrenner insisted. "Sometimes I do make suggestions."

IT'S GETTING CLOSE — Charlotte Brennan of Miami Trace tries to save the ball in last night's varsity match with Wilmington. The varsity won, 15-5, 15-7 and the reserves also won, 15-1, 15-11. Top servers for the varsity were Lisa Creamer, Bobbie Lamb and Brenda Carroll. At the net, Kathy Hanners, Val Brown and Nancy Boyle played well and Sherry Frazier, Lamb and Carroll played well on the back line. For the reserves, Dianne Hennessy, Bridget Meredith and Ronda Downard served well. Both teams will travel to Madison Plains Monday evening. (R-H Photo by Tim Carson)

Yankee superman Reggie

It's a bird, it's a plane, it's . . .

NEW YORK (AP) — Until Reggie Jackson took off his Yankees pinstripes and donned a Superman outfit, the 1977 World Series was just an average affair played by mere mortals.

Until Jackson borrowed a page from Babe Ruth's power book with three rocketing home runs Tuesday night, there was enough action to fill baseball's annual World Series film but nothing worthy of the special niche for memorable moments in Series history.

No catch was comparable to the ones made by Al Gionfrido, Willie Mays, Sandy Amoros or Ron Swoboda.

No pitching performance brought back memories of Don Larsen, Floyd Bevens, Sandy Koufax, Bob Gibson or Whitey Ford.

There were no hitting heroics on a par with the feats immortalized by Bill Mazeroski, Cookie Lavagetto, Carlton Fisk or Babe Ruth.

The 1977 Series was going to be remembered for the New York Yankees' off-the-field squabbles, whether they won it or not. Jackson second-guessed his manager, Billy Martin. The manager retaliated by cursing Jackson and questioning his ability. Several players asked to be traded and one, pitcher Ed Figueroa, jumped the club for a short time.

Old wounds, like an early summer meeting between several players and owner George Steinbrenner discussing the fate of Martin, were reopened by a national magazine piece. The story also recycled a remark by Jackson that he would never play again for Martin.

In contrast, the Dodgers of Los Angeles were the "Sunshine Boys," filled with love for their fellow man, following the lead of their rah-rah manager, Tom Lasorda, by hugging each other at the drop of a hat.

But that's all incidental now. Jackson saw to that. And isn't it ironic that Jackson, the man who was involved in nearly every Yankee tempest all year, could overshadow all the turmoil with one of the most majestic performances in World Series annals?

Ironically, but not surprising. Throughout his career, Jackson always has managed to get more mileage out of his efforts than anyone else. If five guys hit homers, his would be the game-winner and it would travel the furthest.

And always, the best performances would come while he was on center stage in an All-Star Game, a playoff game or a World Series game. No, it is not surprising that Jackson, Steinbrenner's $2.9 million free agent catch, would swing the bat three times Tuesday night, slam three homers and win baseball's world championship for the Yankees four games to two.

"Reggie just seems to be the type of person who most efficiently utilizes his talents when he's in the limelight," said Dodgers pitcher Don Sutton. "It's like an actor on a talk show who can't say much off-stage. But you turn the camera on him and he gives an Academy Award performance."

"Now I believe him," said Mike Torrez, the sixth-game winning pitcher. "Now I know why he calls himself Mr. October."

"That was the greatest performance that I've ever seen in a World Series," said Lasorda.

"Guys throw around the word superstar a lot," said Jackson, the Series Most Valuable Player. "Guys like Ruth, DiMaggio, Mays and Clemente. But I can say I had one day like those guys."

Until he did, the unheroic five-game Series had no heroes: just the Yankees anti-heroes.

The first game was won by the Yankees in 12 innings. The victory was built on sore-armed Don Gullett's starting pitching, ironman Sparky Lyle's stingy relief and the timely hitting of Willie Randolph and Paul Blair.

Game 2 was won by the Dodgers, and they put it in their corner early, rocking a stale Catfish Hunter for three homers inside 2 1-3 innings. Hunter, a victim of season-long shoulder ills and a recent battle with a long-worded urological disorder, shouldn't have been Martin's starting pitcher, Jackson second-guessed after the game.

Martin, however, said he was pleased that the Yankees were leaving New York with a two-game split.

The third game was the big one, according to Martin, who knew he had a well-rested Ron Guidry for Game 4. The winner of the third game would win the Series. Torrez settled down after a shaky start and overpowered the Dodgers, beating them on their friendly home turf.

The next day, Guidry, the Yankees' most consistent pitcher all year, stopped the Dodgers on four hits, leaving the New Yorkers a game away from their 21st world title.

It wasn't to be on Sunday, when the Dodgers' pride and home run bats woke up, sending the Series back to New York without a clear choice for top performer and without a real memorable moment.

Enter Reginald Martinez Jackson, whose hot bat in September got the Yankees here. Exit Reginald Martinez Jackson after his three loud homers tied Ruth's one-game record and broke a handful of other slugging feasts.

"Without him, we wouldn't have won the pennant," said Yankees catcher and captain Thurman Munson, Jackson's bitter antagonist for much of the season. "Without him, we wouldn't have won the World Series."

To Jackson, Munson's comment must have been pure vindication. Yet he didn't gloat. People who hit three homers in the final game of the Series don't have to.

"Nothing can top this," Jackson said. "Who the hell is going to hit three homers to decide a World Series? Hell, I'm not."

He smiled when he said that, knowing inside that no one has done that since Babe Ruth in 1928 and it may be another half century before someone else can match the feat.

Panthers of the week

Seven players were picked as offensive players of the week for Miami Trace following the viewing of game films by Panther head coach Fred Zechman and his staff.

BILL HANNERS — The 6-3 senior split end caught six passes for a total of 145 yards last week against Hillsboro including one touchdown pass. He was also exceptional blocking, recording seven downfield blocks.

SHAWN RILEY — Riley, a 6-2, 201-pounder had three exceptional blocks at the point of attack on three touchdowns. He was the most consistent blocker on Trace's running plays last Saturday.

SHANE RILEY — The 6-1, 187-pound tight end scored one touchdown and three conversions on tight end reverses. He was exceptional with his double-teaming at the point of attack.

ART SCHLICHTER — The senior All-American celebrated his return to the lineup by tossing a pair of TD passes to bring his total to nine for the season. He was 11 for 21 for 224 yards. Zechman called his performance "his best week throwing. He was on target every time." He also ran for two touchdowns.

DAVID CREAMER — Zechman called Creamer's game "his best week running because he got so much of his yardage on his own." The 5-10, 167-pounder ran for two touchdowns and averaged 7.8 yards per carry. He was also excellent in running back kicks and punts.

DENNIS COMBS — The 6-1, 186-pound fullback rushed for 97 yards and also caught two passes for 34 more yards. Zechman reported that Combs also had a good game providing key pass protection.

OFFENSIVE BIG LICK — Glenn Cobb.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q — Can you tell me something about roofing for new construction? I feel I should know something about it, since I am having such a job done soon. Frankly, I expect to be a sidewalk superintendent, as I want to be sure everything is done right. Asphalt shingles will be used.

A — I doubt whether the information given to you here will make you an expert or even qualified to advise professional roofers, but it may be of some value in judging what is taking place. A sound structural deck is essential and should be made of well-seasoned, tightly matched, medium-width sheathings. Badly warped boards are a no-no. While some roofers may want to apply shingles without first installing felt over the deck, this step should not be skipped. The correct procedure is to apply 15-pound, asphalt-saturated roofer's felt or other "breather" material of low vapor resistance, put on when the deck is dry. The purpose of the underlayment is to insure that the shingles, when lifted up or damaged by high winds, do not permit the entrance of rain, and to prevent direct contact between the shingles and resinous area of the wood deck. Such contact, because of chemical incompatibility, would damage the shingles.

The attic space under the deck should be well ventilated, with louvers or exhaust fans placed high in the gables. Failure to provide adequate ventilation may contribute to condensation or buckling problems later. For efficient water-shedding at the roof's edges, a metal drip edge should be installed along the eaves and rakes. A second recommended precaution at the eaves is the application, over the roofing felt and over the metal drip edge, of an eaves flashing strip of smooth-or mineral-surfaced roll roofing. This is especially important in climates subject to freezing temperatures. To seal against leakage, flashing is required at all intersections of different roof plans, abutments of the roof against adjoining walls, and projects through the roof surface, such as chimneys and vent pipes. Flashings should be applied so that the descending water will be carried over the joint, not into it.

Q — We live in a very humid area and want to have a new, white roof put on our house, but have been told that white roofs are likely to develop fungi. Is this true?

A — Under very humid conditions, most roofs are possible targets of fungi and algae. It's just that the growths are more noticeable on white roofs. You can now buy asphalt shingles with fungus-and alga-resistant white granules.

Consumers Saving Money

By MICHAEL LAFFERTY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Pick-your-own farming is helping to lick problems of high food costs and low farm income.

By picking their own produce, consumers are saving up to 50 percent on grocery store prices, as well as obtaining produce of vastly superior quality, according to Dr. Eugene Cravens, professor of agriculture economics at the Ohio State University. And farmers, who are saving on labor and transportation charges, are making more money on their end.

Today, city dwellers can choose from as many as 300 pick-your-own produce farms, Cravens said. Most of them are within 30 miles of major metropolitan areas. Consumers can wade into fields for nearly any popular vegetable, plus apples, peaches and other fruit.

Some growers near Cleveland offered pick-your-own grapes in 1976. Cravens said a number of growers are offering collard greens, kale and other "greens" in response to customer demand.

Cravens said gasoline costs eat up any savings unless a family gathers a lot of food, so pick-your-own is only economical if a customer buys in volume for home canning or freezing. But it's easy to end up with a lot of food.

"People go into fields thinking they'll get a couple of quarts of strawberries and they come out with eight," he said.

One grower who has benefited from pick-your-own is Lot L. Smith, who credits his switch to consumer-gathered crops with saving his farm. Today, more than half of his 415 acres is in pick-your-own crops.

Smith's farm is entirely in the city limits of Columbus. He has as many as 500 persons roaming his fields daily gathering such produce as strawberries, asparagus, peas, red raspberries, green and lima beans, tomatoes, cabbage, peppers, Irish potatoes, turnips, winter squash, sweet corn, kale and turnip greens.

Prince prepares for Ohio visit

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland was making last minute preparations for Great Britain's Prince Charles today as the royal tourist continued his 12-day tour of the United States.

Thousands of excited Chicagoans gathered on downtown curbs and in windows Wednesday to greet the Prince on the first stop of his tour.

Prince Charles, who told Chicagoans "There are not a lot of princes left in the world," will visit a Republic Steel plant in Cleveland to view a basic oxygen furnace.

Among preparations was the laying of a red carpet on Public Square, the center of civic activities here, where the Prince will plant a London plane tree.

The tree, however, will be removed when the $7.5 million renovation of the square begins within weeks.

The heir to the British throne is known as a charming fellow who moves through his crammed royal schedule with comfort and ease. At the University of Chicago, Prince Charles was asked if the British monarchy is outdated. "I don't think it's anachronistic," he said, "because in a way a monarchy fulfills a certain need or desire that people have."

"Its greatest advantage is what it can do as a human institution, what it can do for people. It depends on what you make it. It is what you make of it," he said.

While in Cleveland, the Prince will make an appearance at Severance Hall at 9:30 p.m. for the second half of a Cleveland Orchestra concert which will be followed by a reception.

He is scheduled to leave Severance Hall at 11:15 p.m. for his trip back to Eaton House, a 20-room Bratenahl mansion owned by the Eaton Corp. He will spend the night there and depart Burke Lakefront Airport at 8:45 a.m. on his way to St. Louis.

He may leave some broken hearts behind. Several young women in Cleveland have sent their photographs to the British Consul along with requests for rendezvous.

Ohio could save road repair money

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio could save nearly $1.8 billion by resurfacing 14,400 miles of road before they become too badly worn to restore, according to a study by The Road Information Program.

The Washington D.C., based research firm said it found: it would cost $2.26 billion to rebuild the roads when they wear out in 1982, but only $502.9 million to resurface them now; another 3,269 miles of Ohio roads are too deteriorated to resurface and must be rebuilt at a cost of $513.4 million; and that one third of Ohio's 86,492 miles of paved roads either are in fair or poor condition by federal engineering standards.

The study was commissioned by the Ohio Contractors Association.

PATIENT ESCAPES INJURY — A possible heart attack patient escaped injury when the Greenfield Life Squad unit transporting him to Fayette County Memorial Hospital struck a car (both pictured here) at Court and Main streets Thursday morning. James Lyle, 34, of Greenfield, was admitted to the hospital complaining of chest pains, but was apparently uninjured in the crash. The car's driver, 79-year-old Iva Spangler, 104 E. Paint St., was admitted, but was listed in satisfactory condition.

Two hurt as emergency vehicle crashes en route to hospital

Two persons were injured, one hospitalized, when a Greenfield emergency ambulance collided with a car in the intersection of E. Court and Main streets Thursday morning.

Admitted to Fayette County Memorial Hospital was the driver of the car, Iva Spangler, 79, of 104 E. Paint St. Hospital officials said she was in satisfactory condition after suffering injuries to her left ribs and knee.

One of the Greenfield Life Squad members, Corabelle Walls, 56, of Greenfield, was being treated for head contusions, but was expected to be released later today.

The life squad unit was reportedly transporting an emergency patient, 34-year-old James Lyle of Greenfield, to Fayette Memorial when the collision occurred about 9:27 this morning. The possible heart patient was admitted complaining of chest pains, but apparently was not injured in the crash.

Washington C.H. police officers reported the emergency vehicle entered the intersection on Court Street against a red traffic signal and struck Ms. Spangler's car broadside, causing extensive damage to both vehicles. The impact spun the car completely around facing south in the northbound lane of Main Street.

Ms. Spangler reportedly stated she didn't see or hear the ambulance, which was displaying its red lights and siren.

Police officers cited the driver of the ambulance, Carol S. Kerns, 39, of Greenfield, for failure to yield. Ms. Kerns and another life squad attendant, Pam Fabin, 29, of Greenfield, both escaped injury.

Beverly owners confirm report

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Owners of the Beverly Hills Supper Club have confirmed in court documents that no fire alarm system was available when the nightclub burned May 28, killing 164 persons.

Richard Schilling, who formed the 4-R Corp. with his three sons, said in the document filed Wednesday that the building lacked a fire alarm system and exterior fire escapes from second-floor rooms.

The answers were submitted in response to written inquiries by attorneys for fire victims.

The Schilling response took issue with a Kentucky state report which placed the number of persons in the nightclub at approximately 3,000. The Schilling document says 882 persons had reservations with private parties.

In another document, filed simultaneously in Campbell County Circuit Court and U.S. District Court in Covington, an architect denied supervising any construction at the club.

Bill Roeding of Florence said he did not design or supervise any remodeling other than the Garden Room, "where he revised and submitted plans, and the facade which he only designed in 1972."

The Schillings claim there were no locked doors and that there were lighted exit signs.

A total of 70 damage suits have been filed since the fire, seeking in excess of $1.5 billion.

Farrah's parents file damage suit

HOUSTON (AP) — The parents of actress Farrah Fawcett Majors have filed a $7 million damage suit against the American Broadcasting Co. and Houston affiliate television station KTRK.

James and Pauline Fawcett of Houston claim they were libeled in a skit on comedian Redd Foxx's show aired Sept. 22. They allege the program depicted them in a way that caused them damage, ridicule, embarrassment and humiliation.

Ken Johnson, general manager and vice president of the television station, said he had not seen the suit and could not comment on the allegations.

An ABC spokesman in New York said the skit in question was a "funny comedy," which fictitiously depicted an interview with the actress' parents. The spokesman said Foxx played Fawcett, and wore a wig combed in his daughter's hair style. A dog and a bird wore similar wigs.

Carnival slated

NEW HOLLAND — Plans have been finalized for the New Holland Elementary School Parent-Teacher Organization's annual carnival Saturday, Oct. 22.

The event will begin with a supper at 5:30 p.m. to be followed by games at 6:30 p.m. Door prizes will be awarded every 30 minutes.

In addition, the carnival will feature bingo games, a spook house and a country store.

Council field narrowed

One hopeful withdraws in crowded city race

The crowded race for four seats on Washington C.H. City Council has been reduced as one candidate has withdrawn.

Mrs. Swanson (Dottie) Mounts, 427 Rawlings St., had filed a petition for the City Council race, but she withdrew her candidacy before the ballots were printed, according to Fayette County Board of Elections.

Mrs. Mounts said she felt she could not commit the necessary time required of the job because she is active in other interests.

With Mrs. Mounts withdrawing, Washington C.H. voters will still have a 12-candidate field to select from when they go to the polls in the Nov. 8 general election.

The field includes incumbent Council members Mrs. Bertha McCullough, 431 Circle Ave., Ralph L. Cook, 1229 High St., and Willard W. (Billie) Wilson, 215 McKinley Ave.

The other incumbent, Richard P. Kimmert, has decided not to seek election to the post he received by appointment in 1976 when Eddie Fisher resigned.

Other candidates seeking Council seats are Jack Balahatsis, 238 Kathryn Court; Kenneth Blair, 14 Colonial Court; Darrell C. DeBolt, 1278 Dayton Ave.; Chester F. Hamulak, 1028 Center St.; Gilbert B. (Bud) Hooks, 746 Washington Ave.; Nelson McCann Jr., 916 Sycamore St.; Charles F. Pensyl, 613 S. Main St.; Homer F. Penwell, 230 Green St., and Jerry M. Sparks, 1616 Washington Ave.

None of the 12 candidates are running along party line since it is a non-partisan election, but four are being backed the Committee for Economy in Government.

The committee members are backing McCann, Pensyl, Sparks and Wilson in what they say is a move "to return city management to the people." David Roe, 121 1/2 E. Court St., is chairman of the committee.
